Double Drowning At Lake

Companion Declares Excursion Boat Hit One Water Skier

OSAGE BEACH, Mo. (AP) — Two men drowned Saturday in separate water skiing accidents on the Lake of the Ozarks.

The victims were Roger Robert Kiburz, 22, of Kirkwood, and Arnold Haasey, 30, of Wellington, Mo. Haasey was a truck driver for the Toedebusch Transit Co. of Kansas City.

A companion of Kiburz — Charles Betz, 23, also of Kirkwood —told Sergeant Jim Seely of the State Highway Patrol that an excursion boat ran them down. He told this story:

Betz was operating Kiburz' speedboat and Kiburz was water skiing. At a point about two miles from Bagnell Dam the boat was stopped and was standing idle in the water while Kiburz stooped down to adjust his skis.

An excursion boat piloted by Floyd Perrin and carrying 22 passengers approached, and struck the Kiburz boat, throwing Kiburz into the water. Betz jumper into the water to help his friend, who was not wearing a life jacket, but could not find him.

Betz said the excursion boat continued on.

Pilot Perrin said that when he first noticed Kiburz, he was in front and to the left of the excursion boat. Shortly afterward he heard a bump and looked back and saw a boy swimming toward a pair of floating water skis.

Excursion passengers said they did not see any accident but heard a bump when passing near the Kiburz boat. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Griffith and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pohl of Yale, Ia. They told Sergeant Seely that when they looked back they saw a man come up from beneath the water's surface and swim toward him.

Harvey Lunsford and Archie Jackson of Mexico, Mo., were passing in their boat and went to the rescue when they saw Betz waving from his boat. They found him suffering from shock and took him and the speedboat to the dam.

The second accident occurred at Purvis Beach on the Osage arm of the lake.

Haasey, who was water skiing without a life jacket although he could not swim, fell into the water and drowned before help could reach him.

Sputnik III Soon Visible Again Here

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—The rocket satellite of Sputnik III is due to make its first morning appearances over the United States during the next few days, the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said today.

It will be visible briefly at about 5:20 a.m. EST Sunday to residents in the southern tip of Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana and western Cuba.

The rocket will be coming out of the twilight over Central America and disappear in the bright sky over the Gulf of Mexico.

Monday morning the rocket satellite will cross Southern Mexico at 5:48 a.m. EST and disappear into the bright sky over the southern Texas-Louisiana border two minutes later. This passage should be visible in much of south and eastern Texas and a small part of southwestern Louisiana.

By next week the morning passages will be visible to most of the United States. In all cases the carrier rocket will be traveling in a south-southwest to north-northeast direction in its predawn appearances.

The Smithsonian estimates that Sputnik III, the wedge-shaped ton-and-a-half satellite equipped with instruments, is trailing the rocket satellite by about a full lap around the world.

The rocket is ahead because, presenting more air resistance, it falls lower, has a shorter course around the world, and is traveling faster, due to the increased pull of gravity.

Jones Sentenced To Seven Years On Robbery Count

An all-male jury in Circuit Court Friday found James Jones guilty of first degree robbery, and Judge Dimmitt Hoffman sentenced him to seven years imprisonment.

Jones was found guilty of a holdup at the Missouri Pacific Depot Nov. 1, 1957, in which $34 in cash was taken at gun-point from clerk Noah Reed.

He was tried May 1, but the jury failed to arrive at a verdict and the case was continued. The jury Friday arrived at the verdict of guilty in about one hour, after hearing testimony of three new witnesses introduced by Prosecuting Attorney Harold Barrick.

Jones was defended in both trials by court-appointed attorney Robert S. Gardner.

Rally Behind His Drive For Unity

Agree Algerian Moslem Should Be Brought Into Cabinet

PARIS (AP)—The cabinet rallied Saturday behind Premier Charles de Gaulle's drive for French unity, endorsing decisions he made on his dramatic peace making flight to Algeria.

De Gaulle pushed through a cabinet decision promising local elections in Algeria in about a month. He told the Arab-Berber population that in these elections they would have equal votes with the French population for the first time in history.

The ministers further underscored their bid for support of the Arab-Berber masses by agreeing an Algerian Moslem should be brought into the cabinet fo rthe first time.

De Gaulle also gently but firmly began to slap down the rightwing public safety committees that swept to power in De Gaulle's name and are reluctant to surrender their authority.

Despite his speed and obvious determination, the general's problems were staggering, and he made his maneuvers with the caution of a military commander feeling out a fortified line.

De Gaulle called his cabinet to his official residence — where he set up housekeeping Saturday morning — and reported on the three-day Algerian trip that ended Friday night.

De Gaulle's scholarly information minister, Andre Malraux, said his chief had returned to France convinced that his presence was accepted by Algeria's Arabs and Berbers as a guarantee of equality.

Malraux said De Gaulle is convinced of the loyalty to the government of the army, which fully supported the May 13 insurrection of the French colonials in Algeria.

Despite Malraux's statement, it was known that De Gaulle is anxious to ease into less sensitive spots some of the more fiery officers who participated in the Algerian revolt.

De Gaulle reaffirmed the special military and civilian powers he had given Gen. Raoul Salan, the commander in Algeria.

De Gaulle wrote Salan ,however telling him that he expects him to work toward the establishment in Algeria of regular authority. De Gaulle's Cabinet also decided to send to Algeria a top civil administrator to work with Salan. The administrator, as yet unnamed, would have the title of secretary general.

Saud's Father-in-Law Convicted of Plotting To Assassinate Nasser

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — King Saud's father-in-law was convicted Saturday of plotting to assassinate President Nasser and sentenced to life imprisonment.

A three-man military tribunal tried the father-in-law, Asad Ibrahim Meri, and his brother, Majed Ibrahim Meri, in absentia. The brother also got a life sentence.

Both defendants were found guilty of plotting at King Saud's instigation to assassinate Nasser and launch a military coup d'etat in Syria. Syria charged the plot was designed to sabotage the Egyptian - Syrian merger of last February into the United Arab Republic, headed by Nasser. Saudi Arabia denied the charge.

Volcanic Eruption Menaces Azore Isle

HORTA, Fayal Island, Azores (AP) — A volcanic eruption threatened this island's northern peninsula Saturday and authorities ordered a quick evacuation toward the south.

Roads leading to the peninsula were closed as reports reached Horta of yard-wide cracks opening up.

Meanwhile, the eruption of the Capelinhos Volcano, which swelled up out of the Atlantic last September, increased its fantastic show of fireworks, shooting up lava and red sparks 1,200 feet into the air.

When Capelinhos loomed up out of the Atlantic it formed an island about a mile from the Capelinhos lighthouse, but then it expanded and is now part of Fayal. Its three craters have been in continuous activity ever since.

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Peoria hired a city manager today in its third attempt to fill a vacancy created last December.

The City Council announced Herbert D. Fritz, $12,000-a-year city manager at Lexington, Ky., accepted Peoria's $17,000-a-year offer.

Reds Seek To Raise Standards

Khrushchev's Offer Is Thought to Show His Determination

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev's offer for a billion-dollar trade deal with the United States was interpreted by many Westerners here Saturday as evidence the Soviet Premier is determined to raise the standard of living in Russia, whatever the propaganda cost.

Other Westerners in Moscow, however, looked on the bid as a Khrushchev coup in his over-all campaign for peaceful coexistance with the West.

Khrushchev acknowledged any large scale Soviet - U. S. trade would hinge on long term credits from the United States. But Westerners in Moscow see little prospect the U.S. Congress would approve such credits.

The main argument likely to be raised in the United States is that credits would only release further Kremlin credits for underdeveloped countries, a field in which the Soviet Union is competing with the United States.

One of the main political advantages of Khrushchev's offer is believed to be the stimulating effect it is expected to have on West European countries which now might start a rush to get ahead of the United States in doing business with Russia.

Khrushchev got a pat on the back for his offer from the Soviet newspapers Pravda and Izvestia.

"Only the inveterate enemies of international cooperation can be satisfied with the present conditions of trade between the Soviet Union and the United States," said Pravda.

Izvestia, in a similar front page editorial, said:

"The Soviet Union and other members of the Socialist bloc are countering the antihuman, anti-people's motto of the aggressive NATO bloc, 'Let us arm', with a motto of its own: 'Let us trade.'

Both papers said Russia has enough resources of its own to realize its program, but they added that U.S. materials and equipment would speed up the process for development in the Soviet Union.

Oil Tanker Collides With Another Ship In Port of Rotterdam

ROTTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — A Norwegian oil tanker collided with another ship Saturday at the harbor entrance and burst into flame, halting all shipping in this world's second largest port.

A great pall of smoke rose from the 10,945-ton Artemia. Her skipper, Capt. Gunna Gauslaa, and several crewmen were injured. Police Commissioner J. M. Lens said seven men are missing from the Artemis. The Artemis had a crew of 42, some of them women.

At the entrance to a new waterway off the hook of Holland she collided with the 2,033-ton Lukseffjell. The Lukesefjell was holed in her forepeak, but proceeded to Rotterdam.

Burns Stolen Car To Eliminate Fingerprints

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A 16-year-old boy told police Saturday that an older companion had a special method for getting rid of fingerprints on a brand new convertible they had stolen. He set fire to the car.

Police found it burning on a bank of the Missouri river.

The boy, Ronald Elbert Tucker, 2635 East 7th St., said he and his friend, unidentified, got "tired of walking" and broke into Jerry Green's Union Chevrolet Co. After they had ridden in the car awhile they got out .Then, Tucker said, his companion told him about the new method of eliminating fingerprints.

Officers are seeking the second youth. Tucker was taken to the Jackson County Parental Home, after signing a statement.

Did Not Get Documents

Soviet Diplomat Ousted For Attempt to Buy Secret Data

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is expelling a Russian diplomat on the grounds he paid an American citizen at least $450 in an effort to obtain secret military documents.

Announcing the ouster order Saturday ,the State Department said the Soviet Embassy had been warned more than a year ago that this kind of spy activity "would not be condoned."

The diplomat was identified as Nikolai I. Kurochkin, third secretary of the embassy.

U. S. officials said Kurochkin did not obtain the secret documents he sought but got some nonsecret documents, described as U. S. Army manuals. Such manuals are sold to the public by the Government Printing Office.

The American was named by a Justice Department official as Charles Theodore Beaumet, 25, of nearby Arlington, Va. Beaumet was described as a magazine writer on military matters.

Nathan B. Lenvin, head of the Justice Department's foreign agents registration section, said the department learned Beaumet had been dealing with Kurochkin and notified Beaumet he was required to register as a foreign agent. Beaumet did so in April and listed Kurochkin as his "principle" Lenvin said.

Beaumet told the Justice Department, Lenvin said, that between September and December last year he gave Kurochkin about 25 nonclassified training manuals and that the Russian paid him about $435.

Neither Beaumet nor Kurochkin could be reached for comment immediately.

Lenvin said the Justice Department planned no action against Beaumet.

The FBI declined comment but it was understood the agency had kept an eye on Beaumet for some time before discussing the Kurochkin matter with him.

Sources said Beaumet then cooperated fully with the FBI and told agents he met the Soviet diplomat socially last fall. As the two men became friendly, the sources said, Kurochkin told Beaumet he was interested in writing.

According to this account, Kurochkin didn't ask for classified data as such, but that some material he asked Beaumet to get turned out to be of a secret nature.

However, Beaumet knew some of the material Kurochkin wanted was classified and didn't give it to the Russian, the sources said.

Starkweather Electrocution December 17

Date Is Ordered By District Judge; Killer Is Unruffled

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Charles Starkweather, 19-year-old killer, who has admitted involvement in 11 slayings, was ordered Saturday to die in the electric chair Dec. 17, 1958.

District Judge Harry Spencer, who presided at the trial of Starkweather for the slaying of Robert Jense, 17, of Bennet, Neb., fixed the date for the carrying out of the sentence prescribed by the jury which convicted Starkweather after overruling his application for a new trial.

The judge then ordered a transcript of the proceedings delivered to the Nebraska Supreme Court for an automatic review of the case.

The Supreme Court could delay or set aside the execution order.

Starkweather looked Judge Spencer straight in the eye when the judge announced the execution date.

When Spencer asked him if there was any reason why sentence should not be pronounced, Starkweather shook his head vigorously and replied "No."

Starkweather's attorney had listed 17 reasons why they thought a new trial should be granted, the principal ones being that they felt the state had failed to prove Starkweather's sanity and that the guilty verdict and death sentence were the result of "passion and prejudice."

A plea of innocent by reason of insanity had been entered for Starkweather.

Caril Fugate, Starkweather's 14-year-old girl companion on the January killing spree, still awaits trial. She also was charged with first degree murder.

Simon Warns Citizens To Keep Weeds Mowed

Sanitation Officer Charles Simon today issued a reminder to residents that weeds must be kept down.

A city ordinance states that allowing any growth of weeds to a height of more than one foot is a misdemeanor, and anyone charged and convicted of it is subject to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than $100.

The ordinance applies to any owner, lessee, occupant or mortgagee or any agent, servant, representatives or employee of his having control of any ground or any part of any lot of ground in the city.

At Show Here Saturday

Mrs. DeWolf Earns Top Award for Rose

Mrs. Oscar H. DeWolf received the gold medal certificate from the National Rose Society for the rose, Sutter's Gold, the queen of the Sedalia Rose Society Rose Show held Saturday at the Little Theatre, Smith-Cotton High School.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Brummet were awarded the silver medal certificate for Golden Scepter.

The bronze medal certificate was won by Oscar H. DeWolf with the rose, White King.

Mrs. P. L. Strole was the tricolor winner with an unusual arrangement of American Pillar roses and weathered wood.

The theme of the show was "Happy Birthday," the tenth anniversary of the Rose Show, and the stage was centered with a huge birthday cake with green decoration and "Tenth' 'spelled out in red roses. On top were ten red candles.

Six very lovely "Happy Birthday" arrangements were on tables in front of the stage. They were all in cake tins of various sizes and shapes, and showed the creativeness of the group known for their outstanding arrangements. One was a pyramid shaped arrangement made with three large funnels, a cake pan, Fashion roses and kitten ear. On either side were smaller arrangements each with one funnel and one small pie pan.

There was a crescent shaped arrangement of yellow roses in a long cake pan and candles. Another was of pink roses and with a happy birthday plaque. Another was of pink roses, white Dutch iris and vines, with the accessory of three white candles in muffin tins on either side.

Other outstanding arrangements included pink and white roses in an antique glass cake stand, and one with a patriotic theme had the American Creed around which was draped a blue silk scarf. On the scarf was a white milk glass container holding a half dozen or so bright red roses and one rose lying on the scarf at the side of the container.

There were several other patriotic arrangements, unique arrangements of roses with weathered wood, shells, antique bowls, cups and saucers and many other things.

The miniature roses came in for their share of admiration along with every type of rose that grows in Sedalia gardens.

The show had many specimen roses as well as the exquisite arrangements.

J. M. Richardson was general chairman of the show with P. L. Strole as co-chairman.

E. E. Brummet is the president of the Sedalia Rose Society, affiliated with the National Rose Society.

County Farmers Eligible to Vote On Wheat Quotas

Pettis County farmers were reminded today that wheat growers eligible to cast ballots in the June 20 referendum on 1959 wheat quotas are those who would be subject to the marketing quota program if it is approved.

"The meaning of the term 'eligible voter' is only slightly different from what it was in last year's vote on quotas for the 1958 wheat crop," C. A. Staples, chairman of the Pettis County ASC Committee, declares. "This change results from new legislation which provided a feed wheat program and in effect modified the wheat marketing quota provisions."

The term "eligible voter" in this year's June 20 referendum on 1959 wheat quotas, according to the Chairman, now includes—with one exception — all those farmers in a commercial wheat State who will be engaged in the production of the 1959 wheat crop and who will harvest more than 15 acres of wheat for grain on their farm. The exception is that those farmers who are taking part in the 1958 feed wheat program may not vote on quotas for the 1959 wheat crop.

Under the feed wheat program, farmers whose applications for feed wheat privilege are approved and whose allotments are less than 30 acres may grow up to 30 acres of wheat for use only on the farm where grown without becoming liable for marketing quota penalties.

Staples emphasizes that each individual's right to vote depends entirely upon his or her own qualifications. This applies to minors who are producers.

Farmers who have any question about their eligibility to vote in the June 20 wheat referendum should get in touch with the County ASC Office for further information. If a voter's eligibility to vote should be questioned, he may vote a "challenged ballot," which will be tabulated later as valid when and if its validity can be established.

Fugitive Captured By Police

Alex Allen Mitchell Wanted at Boonville And Decatur, Ill.

A man wanted in Boonville and Decatur, Ill., in connection with robberies and holdups was apprehended in Sedalia about 3:45 p.m. Saturday at Broadway and Grand. He was identified as Alex Allen Mitchell, 50, formerly of Boonville.

It was the second pick up by Sedalia police of widely-wanted men in less than two weeks. On May 27th the local police picked up Owen Richard Hodge, Jr., in connection with passing bad checks and turned him over to authorities at Fulton. He was also wanted in Camdenton according to the Sedalia police.

The Saturday pickup resulted from a "tip" dropped by a hitchhiker who was driving the 1953 Chevrolet convertible ,reported to have been stolen in Decatur, Ill., by Mitchell. The hitchhiker, Charles Haze Allen, 20, of Richmond, Ind., who was driving the car, stopped at the M. H. Drunert Standard Service Station at the LaMonte junction of U.S. Highway 50 and State Highway 127 about 3:30 Saturday afternoon to get a candy bar.

Allen got the candy bar from Mrs. Drunert and then motioned her husband over to him and said, "When we get two miles down the road call the police, that man is wanted for robbery and car theft in Illinois."

Drunert said at first he wondered about the remark ,but walked to the window as the youth left and saw the second man in the car. He said a few minutes later he decided that maybe he had better call the Sedalia police. He gave the information to the police and, in turn, Chief of Police Hamlin ordered three patrol cars to take up watch for the car and two men.

Chief Hamlin drove to the White Spot on Highway 50 just as the car passed. Two other police cars were arriving in the area to standby just as the car passed the junction of Highways 65 and 50. In the meantime Hamlin radioed ahead and the three went after the convertible ,stopping it at Broadway and Grand without incident. At no time did the driver try to speed up and get away.

The two were taken to police headquarters where they were questioned. Mitchell admitted having been sent to the Missouri penitentiary about 1949 or 1950 for two and a half years on a forgery charge.

Questioned about being wanted in Illinois ,all Mitchell had to say was that, "the man (George Fort) got the big end of the money and I drove off with the car." George Fort is reported the owner of the 1953 Chevrolet convertible which had been reported stolen in Illinois and which Mitchell referred to. According to information from local police, Fort was apprehended in Decatur at the time and Mitchell made his getaway in the automobile. A third man is reported held in Decatur in connection with the armed robbery. His name was not obtained.

The Boonville robbery took place about 8:30 p.m. April 20 at the Aggeler Coal and Fertilizer Co. at which time it was reported Raymond Aggeler was helpup and robbed of $2,300 by three bandits carrying sawed off shotguns and pistols. Other men at the place along with Aggeler were reportedly to have been bound and gagged by the holdup men.

The bandits also stole a pair of binoculars and a .380 automatic pistol.

Prosecuting Attorney John Stegner of Cooper County, in a telephone conversation with the Democrat-Capital, said the holdup victim, Aggeler, is at liberty on a

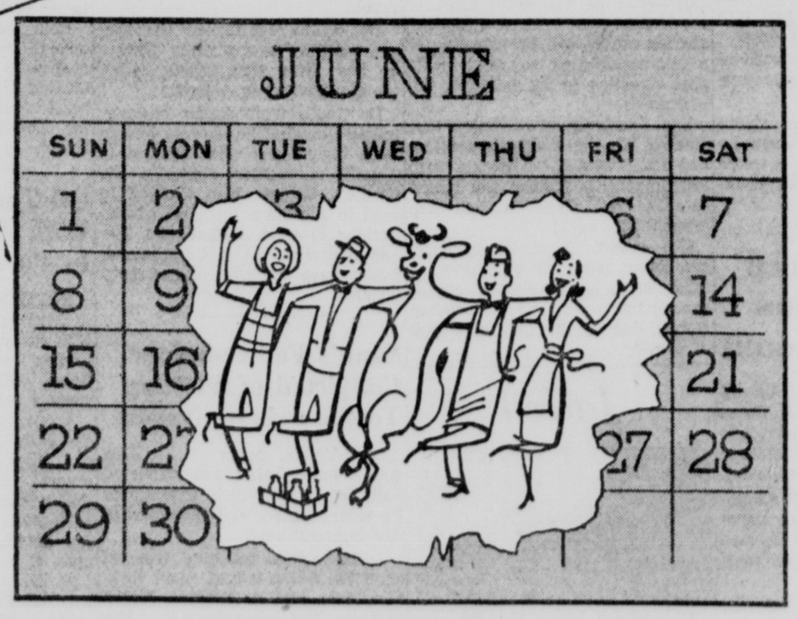
JUNE DAIRY MONTH
"THE PERFECT DAYS" ....
"What is so rare as a day in June?
Then, if ever, come PERFECT DAYS ...."
— James Russell Lowell



EVERYONE'S IN STEP — the dairy farmer ... the milkman ... "Old Bossie" ... the grocer ... the housewife!

JUNE DAIRY MONTH IS A 30-DAY CAMPAIGN TO PROMOTE THE DAIRY FOODS THAT ARE SO ESSENTIAL TO OUR COMMON HEALTH AND NATIONAL WELL-BEING.

This campaign has the support and backing of thousands of processors and handlers, equipment and supply manufacturers, food stores, variety stores, drug stores, fountains, restaurants and allied industries. EVERYONE'S IN STEP!

WE'RE IN STEP TOO! Our plant manager and fieldmen are always ready to encourage and help dairymen to produce quality milk – and to produce it with the greatest possible efficiency. They are in a position to help dairymen with such subjects as calf-raising for herd replacements, pasture planning, elevated stall milking parlors and silo building. We can – and do provide a reliable, steady market for top quality milk. We invite any and all dairymen in this area to call on us.

AT BRUSSELS FAIR—The Flapper Shoe, made in Sedalia by Town and Country, is really stepping out. Designed to go with the new chemise style clothes, The Flapper Shoe first was chosen as America's typical outstanding fashion shoe and then came the invitation for it to be shown at the World's Fair in Brussels, Belgium. This shoe is shown daily at the World's Fair by live models in a fashion show entitled: "A Slice of Life." The Flapper, which comes in calf, suede and fabric, in all kinds of material and a variety of colors, is a T-strap shoe with closed toe and heel. It is fashioned with a two and a quarter inch heel, has proved to be very popular and is one of Town and Country's best sellers.

Many Entries Made in Monthly Yard Contests

Many entries are being made in the "Yard of the Month" contest, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the Sedalia Garden Clubs, according to Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, chairman of the city beautiful committee. People seeing a yard that they think should be listed are calling in to tell about it. Mrs. Ferguson would like more entries, however, in the northwest part of town, which included the section of town north of Broadway and west of Ohio. She would, also, like more in the northeast section which is, of course, north of Broadway and east of Ohio.

This year there has been a little difficulty in getting the signs for the yards since there are four divisions of town and that requires four sets of signs instead of two as was used last year. There seemed to be a little misunderstanding in securing the extra signs and since the signs cost more than is allowed in the budget for this particular committee, there has been a delay in putting them out for the first month. Mrs. Ferguson was under the impression that the signs had been taken care of. The committee feels that this division of the town for judging, with a sweepstakes winner for the year, has created more interest in the program and caused people to be more conscious of the beauty of their yards.

Louis Moreau Gottschalk was the first American pianist to make successful tours of both Europe and America.

Extension Members Give Answer To 'How Do You Rate'

At the May 21 meeting of the Eldorado Extension Club a quiz was held on "How Do You Rate"—clothes, weight, appearance, diet, disposition, news, etc. The club met with Mrs. Dan Gordon with five members and six children present.

The devotional was given from the "Upper Room" by Mrs. Gordon and roll was answered with "A Childhood Trip to Grandmas". Memories of the wagon trip in the winter when they used hot bricks to keep their feet warm and of the time when the flowers were pulled up and they were put under the porch for punishment, were told by members. The lesson, "Farm and Home Planning" was given by Mrs. Cletis Allen. Mrs. Leo Spickert and Mrs. Ernie Eidson reported on the Show-Off-Show and the newsletter was read by Mrs. Gordon. A game was played, led by Mrs. Gordon.

Mrs. Frank Hays will be hostess to the June 25 meting. At this meeting home management will be discussed by Mrs. Spickert and Mrs. Tony Smith. A review of the club constitution will be given and Janice Eidson will give a demonstration.

Sen. Bridges Sees Passage Of GOP Bills

But He Believes Some Face Revision Not Wanted by Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) predicted Saturday Congress will approve major parts of the administration's legislative program, but probably not in the form President Eisenhower wants.

Bridges, who heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said he believes compromises will be necessary on Eisenhower's defense reorganization, reciprocal trade, and foreign aid requests.

He said a House bill creating a civilian space agency is likely to be revised by the Senate. He expressed the belief the administration's hold-the-line tax legislation may be approved without much change.

"When Congress finishes its work, I believe that most of the major measures proposed by the President will be enacted," he said in an interview. "But I am afraid some of them are not going to be in a form entirely pleasing to him."

On defense reorganization, Bridges said he is convinced that Eisenhower will lose out in his demand that the secretaries of the armed forces and the chiefs of staff be barred from appealing to Congress if the secretary of defense transfers functions from one service to another.

"There is no question that the right of the secretaries and joint chiefs to come to Congress will be preserved," Bridges said.

Eisenhower has listed his defense reorganization plan, as originally proposed, as one of "four commandments"—the major matters on which he says he wants congressional action.

In a conference with a group of GOP house members Friday, Eisenhower also urged enactment of the foreign aid and reciprocal trade programs. He called for "a reasonable attitude" on antirecession measures, reiterating his opposition to general tax cuts and any large scale public works program.

Stover Teacher Honored on Retiring

Mrs. Marie Gerhart was honored with a surprise dinner at the Stover High School on Friday evening, May 16th.

Mrs. Gerhart is retiring at the end of this term.

After enjoying the lovely dinner, everyone moved on to the study hall. The melody of "School Days" was heard. Then Mr. Walters spoke, telling the purpose of the dinner and asking Mrs. Gerhart to come forward, as he impersonated Ralph Edwards of TV fame, as the presented a "This Is Your Life" program for Mrs. Gerhart.

He then showed her a scrapbook made up of pictures and facts of her life. These had been sent to the faculty committee by her children, Mrs. Earl Webb, St. Louis; Clyde Gerhart, Blue Springs; and Wayne Gerhart, Clinton. They were all present with their families.

Several gifts were presented to her during the evening.

Claude Newton Martin, Stover, and Margaret Ethel Nichols, Tipton.

• Accidents

Mrs. Ethel Pauline Pace, 2318 First Street Terrace, received bruises of the chest and was shaken up as a result of an accident at 5:27 p.m. Friday on West Broadway. She was taken to the Doctor's Building on South Limit by a police car.

Involved in the accident was a 1955 Pontiac driven west on Broadway by Mrs. Pace and an Allis-Chalmers hi-loader, operated by James J. Greer, Route 4.

According to the police report, the hi-loader backed into the line of traffic and Mrs. Pace failed to see it because the sun momentarily blinded her.

The front end of the Pontiac was damaged, but no damage was done to the hi-loader.

The hi-loader is owned by the T&O Lime and Rock Co., and is part of the equipment that is being used in the reconstruction of Broadway.

A Black Angus calf was killed about 8:15 p.m. Friday when struck by a car on the Green Ridge road, three miles west of Sedalia.

Clyde Frederick Rehmer, 37, Green Ridge, reported to Trooper Richard A. Joos, of the State Highway Patrol, that he was driving his 1958 Ford and headed east on County Highway B. He reported a car pulled from a side road and turned west and he was blinded by the lights. He said the calf was in the road and he did not see it until too late to avoid the accident.

The front end and grill on the Ford were damaged. The car was towed to Sedalia by a wrecker from the Chamberlin Garage.

ENLISTS —James R. Hart, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Hart, 721 East Ninth, has enlisted in the United States Army for a period of three years through the Army Recruiting Station in Sedalia.

Hart, a former employe at Cash Hardware Store, has departed for basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, and upon completion will be further assigned to the 597th Field Artillery Battalion, Fort Sill, Okla., a branch of the Army chosen by him at the time of his enlistment.

Hart has two brothers who are also in the armed forces at this time. They are: A-1c Kenneth E. Hart stationed at Eniwetok, an island in the South Pacific used as an atomic test center, and Pfc. Richard J. Hart a medical aid man with the 82nd airborne division in Ft. Bragg, N. C. James previously served three years in the Marine Corps.

Missionary to Speak On Middle East

The Rev. Harry Shapiro, Pentecostal missionary to Palestine, will speak Sunday morning at the Pentecostal Church of God and that evening at the Gospel Tabernacle in Sedalia.

At the 11 a.m. Pentecostal service he will speak on "What's Next in Palestine?" and his evening topic will be "Egypt, the Suez Canal and Israel".

Rev. Shapiro has been a missionary for more than seven years. He was born in Palestine and now resides in Tel Aviv. He has been in the United States for about 20 months, since the Suez Canal invasion. In that invasion he was a member of the Israeli Army, serving as a Christian chaplain and giving medical aid. He was also in the battle of Jerusalem when that city was captured in 1948.

He comes to Sedalia from the state of California, where he addressed many church groups.

Eastern Star Chapter To Present Program

William Lloyd Jackson, teacher at Oxford, Neb. will be the speaker. The program is open to the public.

Fugitive

$5,000 bond charged with negligent homicide in connection with the fatal shooting of Mrs. Alice Atkinson two weeks after the holdup.

Stegner reported Aggeler had said he feared the holdup men were coming after him and fired through a closed door at the noise. Mrs. Atkinson had a room at the Aggeler residence and it was her custom to enter the house sometimes through this door.

Mitchell, when questioned by Chief Hamlin about the Boonville holdup, only remarked, "There's something in the wind, has to be proven," and that was his only comment.

Allen told Chief Hamlin that he was hitchhiking from Richmond, Ind., to Wichita, Kan., to get a job. At Kingdom City Mitchell picked him up and they drove to Kansas City where Mitchell visited with his daughter Friday night.

Allen said Mitchell didn't want me to leave him and he kept close touch with me. "I was scared and didn't want any part of this man," Allen was quoted as saying. He was also quoted as saying that Mitchell had said to him, "I got a big job to pull and we'll get a lot of money down at Sedalia." Allen then was quoted as saying that Mitchell kept insisting he wasn't to get scared and it wasn't a job where anyone could get scared.

Allen said he didn't know what kind of job it was going to be, but figured it would be a holdup of some kind. He inferred, according to Allen, that he had been in some robberies and the car they had was "hot."

Sheriff Lylburn Mann of Boonville came to Sedalia Saturday evening and took both Mitchell and Allen back to Cooper County. He said he had no charges on Allen, but did want to get a statement from him regarding Mitchell.

Sheriff Mann reported he was going to Decatur and would probably return Fort to Missouri in connection with the holdup at Boonville. He indicated there would be more to come out regarding the holdup later.

Fort, according to Chief Hamlin, lives at Maroa, Ill.

Taking A Calculated Risk

The administration decision not to cut taxes at this time, a choice well supported by congressional leaders, reflects two chief calculations as to the country's economic condition.

One is that the nation is close to the bottom of its business decline and soon will turn toward better times without the stimulus of a tax cut.

This judgment must underlie the decision, because otherwise the determination to employ neither a reduction in taxes nor a heavy public works program could be interpreted as a policy of tolerance for continually sagging business.

The second is that a substantial cut would evidently so enlarge the prospective federal deficit as to raise considerable threat of renewed inflation. Reinforcing this fear is the fact that despite the drop in the economy, living costs have gone on soaring to new highs.

In other words, the President and those within his official family who support this decision against a cut have made a choice for what they hope will be a "natural" recovery. They are concerned that artificial stimuli may produce another disease worse than the current recession.

They take the risk that the natural adjustment they favor may be terribly painful for some millions of Americans, that it may come more slowly than they hope.

If that should be the history of the coming months, the political consequences to the administration and its party could be severe. But if Mr. Eisenhower and his supporting advisers have guessed right and an upturn does soon begin, they may be hailed for their economic wisdom and rewarded at the polls.

At this moment of decision, there should be no argument that a "no tax cut" verdict represents callous indifferences to the plight of the unemployed or all the other millions affected by the recession.

Inflation can be just as damaging to people in the mass as unemployment. It is just as inhuman in its results. Crucial questions of balance are involved here. Any leader trying to find the right course may prove wrong. But we should not pretend that the choice is easy. There are pitfalls on all sides.

Iron Curtain Newsmen Are Friendly

By DREW PEARSON

BUCHAREST—The Union of Rumanian Journalists meets in the old House of Lords of the Kingdom of Rumania. This is about like the Newspaper Guild meeting in the old Supreme Court chamber on Capitol Hill.

The old House of Lords chamber is actually like an art theatre in the United States, with a rostrum instead of a movie screen. In the rear are a battery of translation booths, where speeches are translated into other languages—English, French, German, Spanish, Chinese, Russian and Portuguese.

Having preached the idea of people-to-people friendship until it is now officially adopted by the Eisenhower administration, I decided I had better practice what I preach and, upon invitation, I attended this Rumanian meeting of journalists.

Past Views on Pearson

Because our plane broke down in Budapest I arrived late and attended only one day's session. I had no idea how I would be received. The last clipping I had seen from a Bucharest paper paid its respects to me with considerable vigor. This was about the time we organized the freedom balloons to reach the people behind the Iron Curtain. At that time, Universul of Bucharest had written:

"Pearson is a defender of American democracy. Not long ago he organized a radio debate on American democracy in which it was to be expected the American way of life was praised and worn-out anti-Soviet calumnies were uttered."

The Moscow press had hammered me harder. Izvestia once wrote: "If the magnates of monopolistic capital profiteer on wars, so also do their newspaper salesmen. Such a one is that veteran of slander Drew Pearson." Pravda once charged: "Pearson will resort to any means to sabotage the cause of peace."

So it was with some doubt that I accepted an invitation to attend a meeting of newspapermen behind the Iron Curtain. I didn't know whether I would be greeted with boos and jeers.

I was met, however, by a delegation of newspapermen who informed me I had been elected, in absentia, both to speak and to preside over part of the meeting. The latter was a little more than I had bargained for, and I wanted to know how I was going to be able to recognize the speakers since I didn't know a soul behind the Iron Curtain.

Mr. Ivascu, an enterprising and charming Rumanian editor who seemed to be in charge, said he would give me a list of speakers and sit alongside to nudge my elbow. He also said that Gospodene Kotenko of Moscow was going to preside half the day and implied that the U.S.A. could not play second fiddle to the USSR. I accepted the challenge and next day mounted the rostrum.

Sensation vs. Uniformity

If I'd known this was going to happen I would have brought a good capitalist gavel Speaker Sam Rayburn gave me, made from an elm tree that once stood in front of the capitol in George Washington's day. Not having a gavel, I called the meeting to order by rapping with a penknife.

The newspapermen present were chiefly from Iron Curtain countries, though there were a few from Mexico, Brazil, West Germany, Canada and Greece. They all seemed friendly toward Americans.

I told them at the start that I was a good capitalist newspaperman, but that like a lot of other capitalists I thought there should be more understanding between the east and the west. I also reported that at the last meeting of the International Press Institute in Washington where Badomera Olivera, manager of the Philippine News Service in Manila, had raised the question of admitting to the IPI newspapermen from Communist-bloc countries; and that J. G. Stahlman of the Nashville Banner, with Lester Markel New York Times Sunday editor, had suggested that Iron Curtain editors be admitted. Their idea was that there be free and frank discussion between all newspapermen regardless of their politics.

I spoke in English, which was immediately translated into half a dozen languages by earphone. By putting on the earphones myself, I could get an English translation of everyone else. Except for one Syrian who blasted the United States and Britain, no politics was discussed. I was not presiding at that time or I would have taken pleasure in calling him to order, because it was agreed in advance that there were to be no attacks on any country. The others lived up to this rule.

They discussed journalistic problems, including how much sex and sensationalism should go into newspaper reporting. One Rumanian editor said that under no circumstances would he report a train wreck or an airplane crack-up because it would bring anguish to relatives. I learned later that this is established policy in Communist countries, because trains and airlines are run by the state; so to report wrecks would be a reflection on state operation.

The speech of a Polish newsman, Wieslaw Gornicki, was the most interesting of all. Among other things he said:

"I agree with what has been said about sensationalism. But I think we have to remember that people live not by politics alone and that if our newspapers become too uniform, people will stop reading them. People want to know simple, interesting things, and sometimes what you might call sensation can be of real help.

"I read recently of a medical operation on a sailor 350 feet below the sea in an American submarine," continued Gornicki. "It did not have any political meaning, but was an interesting story of a brave people.

"Should we never print such reports?" asked this editor from the Communist Swiat. I learned later that he has been quite friendly toward the United States.

It's difficult to draw conclusions from talking to people during a short visit, but I got the impression that newspapermen in the Soviet-bloc countries are far more open-minded than ever before and want to be friendly toward the United States. Certainly they have come a long way from the period when they hammered at the U.S.A. editorially day-in-and-day-out, and when it was impossible to communicate behind the Iron Curtain except by balloon.

NEW KENSINGTON (Pa.) DISPATCH: Presbyterian. It took 10 years to perfect, but finally the Presbyterian Church in the USA (2,717,000 members) and the United Presbyterian Church of North America (251,000) merged formally at Pittsburgh. The new body, the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., then proceeded to organize.

A third (now second) major branch of the denomination, the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.—often called the Southern branch—had joined in the early merger talks but finally decided to stay outside with its 830,000 members. This had split off into a separate body in 1861, on the issues that led to the Civil War.

The Southern Presbyterians maintain stoutly, however, that it is not the racial issue that keeps them separate today. In fact, they have in recent years voted consistently against segregation. They point, rather, to doctrinal differences and fears of having their individuality submerged.

Thirty years ago talks were initiated on merging the Presbyterians and the Episcopalians, but after 18 years of discussion the idea was dropped. Then the new intra-Presbyterian merger got under way. There are still half a dozen small Presbyterian sects.

Although the present merger is of course gratifying to advocates of greater church unity, it is within the same denomination and, so less striking than an amalgamation last year of two different denominations. These were the Congregational - Christian and Evangelical - Reformed churches (each the product of earlier merger). Because most church members hold their doctrines tenaciously, these church mergers take much time, and may succeed all the better for that reason.

Awards For Merit

Following the Oscar and Emmy Awards there has been considerable comment on why this country does not have something comparable to the Nobel Prizes of Sweden by presenting awards to our scientists and scholars. Some have argued against this by saying that working for an award might stifle or divert the attention of the individual from his work. That sounds like a poor reason.

This country does have the Pulitzer awards for journalism, fiction, non-fiction, drama, history, biagrophy, poetry and music. There are Horatio Alger awards to men who have risen from "rags to riches" by their own bootstraps.

Few will quarrel with the judges' decision for giving two Pulitzer prizes in journalism to the Arkansas Gazette for its news story and editorial supporting enforcement of desegregation! Said the Gazette:

"Somehow, sometime every Arkansan is going to have to be counted. We are going to have to decide what kind of people we are, whether we obey the law only when we approve of it, or whether we obey it no matter how distasteful we may find it."

Thought For Today

And shalt return unto the Lord thy God, and shalt obey his voice according to all that I command thee this day, thou and thy children, with all thine heart, and with all thy soul;—Deut. 30:2.

Anti-Missile Missile Faces Indecisions and Delays

By JOSEPH A. DEAR
Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—You have a revolver. Your very worst enemy has a magnum rifle.

He is beyond the range of your weapon. He has just aimed and fired. Death is flying toward you. How do you escape?

Very simple. You take your revolver and shoot down the rifle bullet before it reaches its target. Which is you.

Terrifying, isn't it. Straight from a bad dream. And life isn't a bad dream, is it? But it is. For this is roughly the problem that now faces our country.

Russia has intercontinental ballastic missile capability. The anti-missile missile is what we would shoot at the enemy ICBM. The idea is to knock it down before it's over the target.

Actually, the problem of winging an enemy missile in flight is more complicated than shooting down an in-flight rifle bullet with a revolver. A high velocity rifle bullet might have a muzzle velocity of 0.8 miles per second. The velocity of an ICBM would be on the order of eight miles per second.

The enemy could further complicate the problem of the defense by firing dummy missiles. Then the defense wouldn't know which missile had the pay load.

But that isn't the whole story. In that hypothetical example at the beginning of the column you had a revolver. For our country, the anti-missile missile is the equivalent of the revolver. And our country doesn't have one.

In a recent speech Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), a former Secretary of Air and a close student of military affairs, said the development of anti-missile missiles has been "characterized by indecision and delays."

"We know," Symington said, "the Russians are far ahead of us in long-range ballistic missiles. We also know that our defense against those weapons has barely got off the ground. . . . The organization to handle this problem is not worked out. . . . Warning and communication rest largely in the Air Force, but the launching function remains in the Arm. . . ."

Since the Russians put their first satellite in orbit, the word "sputnik" has acquired a pejorative flavor. Ike, for example, uses the phrase "sputnik attitude" to describe a tendency toward precipitate and panicky action.

As a result, the meaning of Russia's achievement has been blurred. The last Soviet sputnik weighed a ton and a half. This is discomforting confirmation of a known fact: Russia is edging ahead in the missile race.

And yet, to quote Symington again, "there has been no acceleration of the Atlas, Thor, or Jupiter programs." The $50 million supplemental appropriation for the Titan, Symington said, "amounts to little more than an effort to forestall slippage in the development of this missile."

The last Soviet sputnik also clearly shows that our country is way behind in developing rocket motors with greater thrust power. The newest sputnik, according to Symington, "weighs some 100 pounds more than the largest satellite we have been able to put up and it is heavier than any we will put up for years to come."

The Russians are moving ahead. Disarmament seems as far off as ever. How then, can the United States afford to make anything less than the maximum effort? But we are.

For example, the administration defense budget for fiscal 1959 is less than what will be spent this year (including supplemental appropriations).

It is true that more money for defense will be troubling to budget balancers. But as Symington says, who wants to be the richest man in the graveyard. And that is where Khrushchev has promised to put us.

Odds and Ends
By News Staff

IT WAS IN the night that a woman was awakened by an unusual noise that she thought sounded like it was outside the house. She woke her husband up and told him.

"Ah," he said sleepily, "it's nothing. Go on back to sleep."

She did, and so did he, but in a short time the noise awakened her again. For a few minutes she listened, then punched her husband. "There is that noise again. I'm certain it is outside."

"Probably a mouse in the kitchen," he told her. "Go on back to sleep."

Again she went to sleep and so did he and again the noise woke her up and she woke up her husband. "That noise," she insisted. "I know there is somebody outside making that noise."

"It's a mouse in the kitchen," said the husband, and to satisfy her he got up, went into the kitchen and set the mouse trap.

At lastt he noise ceased and the woman went to sleep and let her husband sleep.

Finally morning came and the husband had proof that he was right—the noise in the night was a mouse because there was a mouse caught in the trap he had set.

But a little later he was willing to give in—she had heard a noise outside. There was proof of that, too, for the hub caps had been stolen off his car.—H.L.

Music Moods

Ah, there are moods of music, and—
Some kinds are hard to understand,
That is, unless you're young and gay,
You'll probably shake your head and say:
"That Rock 'n Roll is just a fright,
"Why do the young folks find delight
"In all that noise, why don't they stop
The Mambo, cha cha, and Bee-Bop?"
But you forget that at that age
Jazz was then just all the rage,
You thought that it was quite the thing
To dance to and to play or sing,
While parents wondered why you must
Sing out that noisy stuff with lust,
Forgetting they had turned the page
Since they were at that Ragtime stage;
And so today we have them all
'Most anything you can recall,
TV and radio confuse
One with the Rhythm and the Blues,
The modern and the Dixieland
In music live and music canned,
Calypso and the popular stuff,
The youngsters never have enough,
There's country music, Westerner,
Hill-billy, now if you prefer,
Some with its high and nasal tones,
Some that seems filled with moans and groans,
Some kinds to which square dancers whirl
Where chants the caller: "Swing your girl";
The polka, popular once more,
Still glides the dancers 'cross the floor,
The marches with their lively beat
That peps the steps of marching feet;
The opera some just love to hear
While others really don't, I fear,
Some have no love for classics—still—
From classical some get a thrill;
There is church music, sweet and slow,
A comfort that all people know,
There's spirituals where voices raise
In lively song to sing God's praise,
Sweet Irish songs and oriental,
Some foolish songs, some sentimental,
Yes, yes, it comes in any style
To make you cry, to make you smile,
But what you like to listen to,
In music, just depends on you.

Turn the Volume Way Up, Hi-Fi Reporter Has Arrived

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Like everything else these days, this business ain't what it used to be.

It used to be that reporters could get through the day with no greater hazard than having to read the texts of a lot of long-winded speeches or handouts.

The merit of this system was that it wasn't necessary to listen to the speeches themselves or listen to some bureaucrat read his statements from the page.

This was a great time saver and it made life nicer.

But not no more. Things have changed.

Instead of texts, they force phonograph records and tape recordings on you, so they do. And you have to listen to the stuff.

A printed text you could fold and stuff in your pocket—till you got to the next wastebasket. Or you could scribble notes on the back. Or you could tear it up and strew it, like rose petals, at the feet of a returning vice president.

Two such crises have faced this scribe recently.

The first came from a 10-inch platter handed out by Committee for a National Trade Policy. It recorded 3,000 words of statements in favor of extending reciprocal trade agreements. The voices were those of President Eisenhower, Secretaries Dulles, Benson, Mitchell and Weeks, Adlai Stevenson, Steel Worker Dave MacDonald and V. P. Nixon.

Now this recording can be highly recommended — as something to put you to sleep in the still small hours. Otherwise—

Fortunately, the C for a NTP furnished a printed transcript along with the recording—so you didn't positively have to listen to it. But, lookit. Is every reporter going to have to lug around a pocket hi-fi so he can play back handouts before phoning them in? Will it come to this?

The second offense was a seven-inch job from American Heritage Foundation and the Advertising Council, Inc.

This recording gave one minute, 30 second and 20 second spot announcements which are to be dinned into your ears this fall in the new "Give, Register and otVe" campaign. The theme is a non-rhyming jingle which goes:

Now is the time for all good men
To come to the aid of their party.
Don't pass the buck—but give
a buck
To the party of your choice.
This is the way to keep politics clean
So come to the aid of your party.
Don't pass the buck but give
a buck
To the party of your choice.

Of course, you couldn't put this in a printed handout because most reporters can't read music. And you couldn't put it in a speech because most politicians can't sing.

As straight news, a paper might print this jingle once. The paper might editorialize that it will probably take more than a buck to keep politics clean. That's all.

But as a "public service"—even though this is a worthy cause—you're going to have this sung at you until in sheer desperation you give each party a buck just to make them please turn it off.

The age of sound tracks has arrived, and there's no escaping on the printed word and born 30 years too soon should go turn in their time.

In the old days, a reporter could go up to a guy and ask, "Senator, what do you think of things?"

He would shift his quid and say, "Terrible." And that would be that.

Now they shove a microphone at him. He doesn't chew any more because that would ruin his recording tonsils. So he makes a speech. It goes on a sound track. And brother, you gotta listen to it both willy and also nilly. If you didn't, you might find out later it was Dinah Shore.

Dr. Jordan Says

Baldness Is Still Incurable Despite Many Wild Claims

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

If I knew of any good way to prevent baldness I should try it myself. Nevertheless, I receive many inquiries on this subject and it is worth a little discussion.

Mrs. D. writes that she has recently had a baby and finds that since then her hair ras began to fall out considerably. She asks whether this is a vitamin deficiency or something natural after childbirth.

This type of falling hair is not unusual. I do not know that anyone understands exactly why it should occur occasionally following childbirth or a serious illness, but it does happen.

As a general rule, however, the hair grows back completely. I can remember a girl in high school who developed typhoid fever, lost just about all her hair, and then grew back a beautiful crop of auburn hair.

Another kind of question on baldness comes from Mrs. K., who says that her 19-year-old son is losing his hair. She said the hair started to get thin and fall out soon after he started college.

College often has its problems, but can hardly be considered responsible for this premature balding. In all likelihood this early loss of hair is familial and there are probably some members of the family — perhaps a long way back — who showed the same tendency.

In the usual kind of baldness of the family type it is most common for the hairline over the temples to recede gradually and then for the hair to become thin at the crown.

Local disorders may speed the loss of hair. Dandruff, or seborrhea, is among these influences. Therefore if any such condition is present, treatment of the local condition and massage of the scalp aimed at stimulating th ceirculation may delay (though not stop) the gradual loss of hair.

So-called "cures" for baldness range all the way from singeing the hair "to keep the juice from running out" (and incidentally, the hair is not hollow), to costly instruments for "massaging" the scalp or producing some other marvelous effect on hair growth.

Although claims are made for many "hair restorers," there are too many failures from any form of treatment to justify the belief that there is a sure prevention or cure.

BPWC Hears Talk About Work of CAP

Maj. Sterling Kennedy air inspector and coordinator of affairs, CAP Group 2, St. Louis, was the speaker Thursday night at the dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club at Bothwell Hotel.

The Civil Air Patrol, Major Kennedy said, was organized in 1941 for divil defense, on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts to patrol the shores. It is now an official auxiliary of the U. S. Air Force and works in civil defense. It's main function, he said, is rescue work and it can muster 5,300 airplanes for emergency. It has a network over the United States, Alaska and Hawaii. St. Louis, he said, has one mission a month and he told of the 1957 civil defense alert.

Major Kennedy showed a film entitled: "The Hero Next Door" in which a Civil Air Patrol volunteer, and they are all volunteers serving without salary, received an emergency call from the Red Cross just as he was sitting down to dinner in his home, asking him to rush blood from the blood bank in the city to another town to save the life of a young boy. Despite the terrific storm he made the trip by plane and through the cooperation of all other members of the Civil Air Patrol landed safely in time. The picture gave some of the other phases of the Civil Air Patrol work including the training of Civil Air Cadets, lost people, wrecked planes, forest fires, and the delivery of food by dropping it from the plane in flooded or snowbound areas.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Peg'ee Homan, National Defense chairman.

Special entertainment was by Nancee Kay Homan who gave a reading: "The Story of Romeo and Juliette", Patty Sneathen singing "Dark Town Strutter's Ball", Janice Walker and Nancee Homan in a pantomime, "Sisters" and Nancee Kay Homan in a pantomime, "Hooray, Hooray."

The meeting was presided over by Miss Doris Stott, president.

Invocation was by Mrs. Kurman Riley, with singing led by Mrs. Gerald Hayworth.

Mrs. Frank Wagner was installed as president for the year 1958-59. Her officers installed with her were: first vice-president, Mrs. Marjorie Garansson; second vice-president, Mrs. W. G. Killingsworth, secretary, Mrs. Frank Zahringer; treasurer, Miss Kay Matthews; auditor, Miss Georgia Giokaris; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Albert Dirck, parliamentarian, Mrs. Ike L. Warren; chaplain, Mrs. Flo Wingenried; historian, Mrs. Donald Remer, custodian, Miss Mary Ellen Merrill, director, Miss Doris Stott.

Mrs. Anna Bagby, installing officer gave a very beautiful installation combining flowers of different colors which she took from a floral arrangement with guiding lines of wisdom from the club collect.

Mrs. Wagner, in her acceptance of the office, told of what the women of today have and stated it is difficult to realize women did not always enjoy what we have now. Th BPW Club, she said, has an opportunity, for every woman has a hidden talent. There are no obstacles, she pointed out, only challenges. We are living in an important moment to women everywhere.

After the gavel had been given to Mrs. Wagner by Miss Stott, Mrs. Everett White presented the outgoing president, Miss Stott, with a gift from the club. "You have measured up in every respect," Mrs. White said in the presentation, "you have given the best you have and have shown great leadership."

Miss Stott announced that $950 for furnishing a room for the new wing of the hospital has been raised this year and that, with the interest, the $1,000 promised will be ready when the room is ready.

Mrs. Frank Wagner and Mrs. Marjorie Garansson were elected delegates to the biennial convention to be held in Seattle, Wash., with Mrs. Katharyn Rosencrans and Mrs. Everett White as alternates.

Mrs. Rosencrans announced the luncheon that will be held at the Pacific Dining Room Tuesday, noon, is in honor of the national president, Miss Hazel Palmer.

Miss Erma Fajen, career advancement chairman, presented a gift from the club to Susan Schien, who ranked first in the graduating class at Smith-Cotton High School.

Mrs. Maria Layne read memorial resolutions prepared by a committee of B.P.W.C. members in memory of Miss Grace Carter, a member of the club who died recently. Miss Carter's name will be placed on the memorial plaque at the library.

Some Farmers May Apply for Acreage

Farmers on land on which no wheat was seeded for grain in any of the years 1956, 1957, and 1958 and for which a 1958 wheat acreage allotment was not established, may apply for a 1959 wheat acreage allotment according to C. A. Staples, chairman of the Pettis County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. The owner or operator of such a farm must apply in writing to his ASC county committee by July 1, 1958, Staples stated, otherwise, a 1959 wheat acreage allotment will not be estblished for the farm.

Receive Diplomas

Commencement exercises were held Thursday evening, May 29, for the seniors of Bunceton High School at the school auditorium.

The address was delivered by Dr. Lester Shell, Fayette, and music was furnished by Albert Ellis and Jeree Gibson. Scholarships and awards were presented by Supt. Lowe and Norbert Fricke presented the diplomas.

Murry Dickson Hurls A's Over Orioles 5-2

Power's Homer In 1st Inning Decides Game

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dependable Murray Dickson, the oldest active pitcher in the major leagues, hurled steady five-hit ball to get second-place Kansas City back to its winning ways with a 5-2 win over the Baltimore Orioles Saturday.

He slipped only one, tossing a home-run ball to Baltimore pitcher Jack Harshman with one aboard. The Orioles' other four hits were scattered and confined.

As it turned out, the Athletics won the game in the first inning. After Bill Hunter lined out and Bill Tuttle struck out, Hector Lopez got on with a hard smash to short and Bob Cerv singled to center. Then Vic Power homered for the winning margin.

Plew's Single Gives Senators 4-3 Victory

WASHINGTON (AP)—Herb Plews' bases-loaded single in the last half of the ninth inning Saturday score Rocky Bridges and gave the Washington Senators a 4-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The victory lifted the Senators out of the American League cellar and into fourth place.

Washington was outhit, 12-7, and had been held hitless for five straight innings by Detroit relievers Tom Morgan and Herb Moford before they broke loose in the ninth.

Berra Powers Yankees Over Indians, 6 to 3

NEW YORK (AP)—Yogi Berra provided the power Saturday as the runaway New York Yankees blasted Cleveland for the fourth straight time. The score was 6-3.

The squat Yankee catcher drove in four runs, three of them with a tie-breaking home run in the sixth inning. That was all the league-leaders and Whitey Ford needed.

The lefthanded pitcher was reached for 10 hits but he went all the way for his sixth straight victory and his seventh of the season. He has lost two.

Lefty Don Mossi (4-5) was the victim of Yogi's game-winning blow. The score was 2-all when the Yanks broke loose for four runs in the sixth.

Red Sox Rally to Nip White Sox, 7 to 6

BOSTON (AP)—Boston catcher Lou Berberet lined a seventh-inning bases-loaded double into center field Saturday that paid off in a 7-6 triumph over Chicago.

Jim Landis made a valiant try for the catch but the sinking drive dropped directly in front of him, scoring three runs.

The victory was Delock's second in as many days in relief.

Phils Rip Cards 15-6; McDaniel Loses His Fifth

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A former St. Louis Cardinal, Rip Repulski, back to torment the Red Birds by driving in five runs in a free-swinging 15-6 Philadelphia Phillie defeat of the Cards Saturday.

The Phils teed off on five Cardinal pitchers for 17 hits and, the Red Bird hurlers gave up 13 walks. The defeat ended a four-game Cardinal winning streak.

The loss was given to Lindy McDaniel, who lasted less than one inning. The winner, Curt Simmons, now is 5-6. For McDaniel, it meant a fifth loss while winning three.

Worthington's Relief Job Gives Giants Win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Al Worthington pitched no-hit ball for four innings in relief Saturday and the San Francisco Giants, despite hitless Willie Mays, got 10 safeties for a 7-3 victory over Cincinnati before a crowd of 20,297.

The decision moved San Francisco into a one-half game lead over Milwaukee, which plays a night game in Los Angeles. A Braves victory would restore them to first place.

Mays, after a sensational week, and hitting .433 going into Saturday's game, cooled off, although he was credited with two runs batted in. His batting average is still a lusty .424.

The Giants climbed on four Redleg pitchers. Starter Joe Nuxhall took the loss, his third against two victories. The triumph was Worthington's fourth. Three Cincinnati errors helped the Giants.

Pirates Whip Cubs 8-6 in Ten Innings

CHICAGO (AP)—Gene Freese, a Pittsburgh bench warmer with a .118 batting average, started a three-run 10th inning with a pinch homer Saturday as the Pirates snapped a five game losing streak by defeating the Chicago Cubs 8-6.

Freese's home run also helped little Elroy Face to his first win of the year working as the second of four Pirate pitchers but Frank Thomas was the big bat man in the Pittsburgh triumph.

Thomas hit his 15th and 16th homers plus a run-making single to drive in five runs and lift his RBI total to 49.

Mickey Wright's Lead in Ladies PGA Goes Astray

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Mickey Wright, who fired sub-par 69s in the first two rounds of the Ladies PGA tournament, lost her magic touch Saturday in scoring a 6-over-par 76 that halved her once-wide margin to four strokes with only 18 holes left in the 72-hole medal event.

The long, straight drives that carried her to a comfortable lead after 36 holes began going astray in Saturday's third round on the short but tricky layout at nearby Churchill Valley Country Club.

Mickey bogied seven holes and birdied only one. She takes a 214 total into Sunday's final round on the par 36-34-70, 6,025-yard layout.

Chiefs Will Play Tonight At Lexington

Manager Bill Arnold's Sedalia Chiefs, struggling to keep pace with the high flying Holden Chiefs in the race for the pennant in the Western Division of the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League, will clash with the Lexington BJ club at Lexington at 8 o'clock tonight.

The Chiefs will call on lefty Jack Satterwhite to handle hill duties with Larry Mines behind the plate. Satterwhite, a product of St. Louis Junior Legion and Ban Johnson baseball, moved to Sedalia this year. In St. Louis he pitched for the Legion nine which won the national championship two years ago and at Maplewood High School he won all-state basketball honors. To date he has worked only three innings, but has registered seven strikeouts and allowed no runs. He has one win to his credit—gaining the decision over Richmond in a relief job.

In addition to an excellent curve ball, Satterwhite has a better than average fast one. His pick-off move to first base is "the best I've seen around here," according to skipper Arnold.

The Chiefs are lodged in second place in the league race, trailing Holden by a game and a half. Holden is coasting along behind the efforts of southpaw Mike Roberts and has racked up four consecutive opponents. The Sedalians have posted two decisions while dropping a verdict to Holden.

On Tuesday night the locals will return to Liberty Park to battle Marshall. Merel McCown, a recent service returnee, is slated to get this pitching assignment.

Little LEAGUERS

The opening of the Little League on June 3, this season has brought out more than 600 youngsters active in baseball. The season is off to a good start as far as the playing is concerned.

In the openers on Tuesday night at the L. L. Stadium Kiwanis Majors defeated the Jaycees by a score of 11 to 7 with Paxton the winning pitcher and Horner on the losing end.

The second game the Sedalia Ice and the Lions club tangled with Bobby Randall pitching a no hitter for the Ice as they won by a 9 to 0 score. Daugherty was on the hill for the Lions.

June 4th was between the Optimist and Lions with the Optimists coming through to x x x a 5-1 victory. Golf was the winning pitcher for the Optimist while Rieger was the loser.

The second tilt was between Adco and American Legion Post 16, with Adco coming out on top 13 to 7. Wright was the winning hurler and Bain the loser.

Rotary defeated the Elks 9 to 6 in the opener on Thursday with Schmidt hurling the victory and Moore was the losing pitcher.

Optimist kept their slate clean by defeating the Moose Club 6 to 1 in the second game. Cook was on the mound for the Optimist while Mathews received credit for the loss.

Friday night the Jaycees came through to win their first game defeating Rotary 6 to 4. Gravitt was the winning hurler and Briggs the loser.

Moose Club also came through to win their first game by beating the Post 16 aggregation 11 to 4. Racunas was the winning pitcher and Manns on the losing end.

Cavan Ruins Tim Tam's Bid At Belmont for Triple Crown

Tim Pulls Up Lame To Finish 2nd

NEW YORK (AP)—Cavan achieved one of racing's greatest upsets Saturday by easily winning the $114,600-Belmont Stakes as Tim Tam-Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner—pulled up lame after a vain effort to become the ninth colt in history to win the triple crown.

It was the second straight year that a foreign-bred horse whipped the American horses in the rugged mile and one half classic for three year olds. Gallant Man, foaled in England but raised in Ireland where Cavan was born, won the Belmont a year ago.

Cavan, owned by Joseph E. O'Connell of Boston, took charge rounding the bend leading into the homestretch. Then he drew off to beat Tim Tam by six lengths.

Tim Tam, a prohibitive 3-20 favorite of a crowd of 44,025 to give Calumet Farm its third Belmont and triple crown, tried valiantly but could do no better than second place. It was another 5½ lengths back to C. V. Whitney's Falmingo, who took third money by three-quarters of a length over the Wheatley stable's Nasco.

The crowd, biggest Belmont gathering since 52,668 turned out to watch Phalanx win in 1947, roared as Cavan and Timmy battled into the final turn. Then many of the shouts turned to groans when it was evident Tim Tam was through an eighth of a mile from the finish.

Ismael Valenzuela, who won the Derby and Preakness aboard the colt, whipped his mount. Tim Tam swerved slightly but everyone knew he wasn't going to make the winner's circle this time. He went on down to the first turn where Valenzuela dismounted and removed the saddle. The colt limped from the track without returning to the regular unsaddling area in front of the winner's circle.

Five weeks ago Tim Tam collected Kentucky roses at Churchill Downs. Three weeks ago Maryland black-eyed susans were draped over Tim Tam at Pimlico. But the white carnations which blankets a Belmont winner went to an Irish galloper who only last week romped off with the Peter Pan Handicap here and set up his remarkable Belmont knockout.

Pete Aderson, a 27-year-old native of Southampton, N.Y., rode Cavan. As the second choice, Cavan paid $11.80, $2.40 and $2.10. Tim Tam, who was seeking his ninth straight victory, returned $2.10 and $2.10. Flamingo also was $2.10 to show.

Cavan, a chestnut son of Mossborough-Willow Ann by Solario, was clocked in 2:30 1-5 on a fast track.

Sports Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

LITTLE League Foundation Day will be Saturday, June 14, the annual Flag Day observance, and at this time upwards to 4,500 Little Leagues will join forces in support of this program. The Foundation is a non-profit organization dedicated to perpetuating Little League Baseball, making it self-supporting and providing instruments and facilities for improved leadership, training and practical aids to meet the growth demands of the program.

It has been pointed out the observance by local leagues is expected to result in the world-wide spectacle of more than 150,000 boys representing 9,000 teams engaged in 4,500 games on a single day. Total attendance of parents and fans will range between 500,000 and one million. The combined operations of organized baseball, intercollegiate and amateur games on a single day would not approximate this array of players, teams and fans who will comprise the Foundation Day schedule. In addition to games to be played in the United States, Little Leaguers in Canada, Europe, Latin America and the Pacific areas will take part in games to help the Little League Foundation drive.

All contests are regular season games, but in hundreds of cities and communities special ceremonies are being arranged for Little League fields. Governors, mayors and municipal officials have issued proclamations, designating Flag Day as Little League Foundation Day and urging community support for the Foundation.

THE Sedalia Athletics, who started the season off on a "limp" in more ways than one, have been given the necessary "shot-in-the-arm" to make a real team for 1958. As a matter of fact there were two good "shots", one a manager to take hold and another a sponsor to help out financially.

For weeks some of the boys desiring to play semi-pro baseball have been beating their heads against a brick wall trying to figure out how they could carry on. No one seemed interested to come up with what is really needed and that is money, then the problem of a manager was there.

This week Vincent "Vint" Siegel finally gave in and agreed to take on the managership. Knowing Vint, he draws no punches and will be demanding of the boys to give their very best and that's all he will want.

Jim Dickman, distributor of Hamms Beer, was contacted and after hearing the "story" smiled and agreed to give some financial help. Dickman, is a real sportsman and in the past has backed softball teams and basketball teams, but this is the first venture in baseball in these lines. Dickman is another one who is demanding. As long as the players put out their best he doesn't lack for support, but he is one who loves to see championship teams, and these players know what will be expected of them as long as Jim has anything to do with the team.

But Jim cannot carry the whole load alone. The money problem is one which Dickman or few other individual business firms can go all out on. If there are a few more who'll come through and give a lift along this line, Sedalia will be assured of some real semi-pro baseball.

The team is a member of the Missouri Valley ABC League and this alone should interest the fellows with a little money to help out to keep the team going. The more the merrier.

Another thing that the team would like to see is some of that support in the grandstand. It is tough to play ball to a bunch of empty seats. A filled grandstand adds much to a ball game and puts a lot of color in the afternoon or evenings play.

IT should be fun to see what really happens when "Old Fatty" reports to the Spring Fork Lake at 10 a.m. today to do some fishing. It will be interesting, first, to really see the party up that early on Sunday morning with his great big straw hat and cane fishing pole.

Of course I am wondering if they'll be "bought worms" or "dig 'em yourself worms."

The Board of Public Works and everybody else interested is so being informed that a test is underway of whether the privacy of the lake is still in effect or if it's a special permission deal.

Personally, I will have to go along with "Old Fatty" on declaring the Spring Fork Lake "open territory". It isn't like when it was under private ownership. Now every tax payer in Sedalia has a chunk of that lake as it is owned by the City of Sedalia.

It should be either thrown open to the public or closed to everyone. The Sedalia Park Board governs the Liberty Park lagoon and they have at times posted the lake to fishing and at times let it open to all.

Sorry, Stanton, I won't be in town this morning, or I would be out there at 9 a.m. awaiting your arrival and trying to get your picture on one piece of film. Like you, I'm married, too, and mother is heading out to see the grandsons.

MU Tigers Whip Iowans to Win Trip to Omaha

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—The Missouri Tigers whipped Iowa State Teachers College of Cedar Falls 13 to 3 Saturday to win the NCAA District 5 baseball playoffs. The Tigers won the first game Friday 11 to 7.

Missouri will meet Western Michigan of Kalamazoo in the opening game of the eight-team NCAA championship series at Omaha next Friday night.

This will be Missouri's third trip to the college "world series." In 1952 the Tigers placed second and in 1954 they were national champions.

Iowa Teachers used five pitchers in a fruitless effort to stop the Tigers who got 14 hits. Missouri's John O'Donoghue allowed the Iowans only four hits in eight innings, but he walked eight and often was in trouble, so Bud Harbin pitched the ninth inning.

Missouri's Bob Meyers hit a three-run homer in the sixth inning. The Tigers' third baseman, Ray Uriarte, got on base 10 of his 12 times at bat in the two games, although he got only one hit in each game. He was hit by two pitches, reached first on an error, twice on catcher interference, and three times on walks.

Round Table Captures Argonaut Handicap

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Millionaire Round Table, carrying 132 pounds for the first time in his career, got back on the winning trail Saturday with a close but well-earned victory in the $53,500 Argonaut Handicap.

Charming a crowd of 47,500, which made the 4-year-old bay an odds-on-favorite, Round Table up in the stretch to beat out the pace-setting How Now by a head or more.

Seaneen, the Irish 4-year-old, was third in the field of six starters. The well-regarded Terrang was fourth.

Three Top Drivers Will Vie at T-Bowl

After three races at Sedalia's Thunderbowl Speedway no driver has managed to score repeat victories, but with Walt Sorrels, Torchy Aleshire and Ken Taylor on the entry list for this Wednesday night the story is likely to change.

These three pilots, tops in the Central Missouri Racing Association, have scored triumphs in the feature events at the Thunderbowl thus far. Aleshire, the Moberly Meterorite, won the big prize on grand opening night. After a week off for a motor overhaul, he's out to regain the winning touch.

Taylor, the Slater speedster, won the second race with a brilliant driving display, but last week he gobbled up Sorrels' dust in a flying finish as the Columbian Junkman in D-7 copped the winning purse before 1,400 racing spectators. It marked the first time Sorrels has won on a Sedalia track. He finished second in the previous two races at the Thunderbowl and in State Fair competition he led the all-star pack from all over the Mid-West until his modified vehicle konked out with four rounds to go on the half-mile oval.

Henry Powell, an eight-year CMRA veteran, is out of racing action as a result of an accident on the Marshall track one week ago. Powell, a Warsaw resident, went end-over-end in the first lap of the feature as he neared the west turn. He rolled over six times and came to rest more than 100 feet from the track.

Powell was driving E. A. Steele No. 4. He was knocked unconscious and suffered facial cuts which bled profusely. A report from the Fitzgibbon Hospital in Marshall Saturday night indicated Powell is in good condition, making rapid recovery. He is scheduled to be released from the hospital to return home today.

Drivers, other than the three previous winners already mentioned, who are slated to see action at the Thunderbowl Wednesday night include Don Cooper of Sedalia; Paul Keefe of California; Dean Marr, Jefferson City; Sonny Roberson, Windsor; Roy Hibbard, Marshall; Russ Hibbard, Slater; Joe Dennis, Clinton; and Jack Gray, Warrensburg.

Thunderbowl Speedway, with a red clay high bank, is the most modern speedway in Central Missouri. Some of the CMRA's best times this season have been posted on the Sedalia oval. Modern bleachers provide seating facilities with an excellent view for 3,000 persons. A massive parking lot and parking attendants speed entry and exit for race goers.

Sedalia A's Find Manager, Sponsor

Despite the humiliating defeat administered to the Sedalia Athletics by the powerful Jefferson City Redbirds Thursday night, the cloud with a silver lining has arrived for the local semi-pros.

The A's to be known by another name after this week, attempted to start the season without funds, without a sponsor and without a manager. A total lack of organization prevailed at the few workouts held. But Saturday afternoon things began to perk up for Sedalia's representative in the Missouri Valley ABC league.

First, Vint Siegel agreed to take over the managerial helm. Siegel, one of Missouri's best known semi-pro baseball men, has piloted many of Sedalia's finest clubs and his baseball knowledge and organizational ability should bolster the team.

The second break ended the team's biggest problem. Jim Dickman, distributor of Hamms Beer in Central Missouri and one of Sedalia's finest sportsmen said he would sponsor and help finance the club. Dickman will be making his first entry into baseball as a sponsor. In the past he sponsored the Hamms Beer softball club, city industrial champions for two consecutive years, and the Hamms Beer basketball team, one of the state's top flight independent quintets.

Although Dickman made a very generous pledge to support the team financially, Siegel said that another businessman would possibly provide additional aid and be a co-sponsor with Dickman.

The A's will hold a long workout at Liberty Park this afternoon beginning at 1 o'clock. The team faces a rough road in preparing for a heavy schedule during the remainder of June and through July. This week they will face three teams in Missouri Valley League play, clashing with the Columbia VFW club in the university town Tuesday, playing host to the Jefferson City Redbirds at Liberty Park on Thursday, and traveling to Mexico to meet Fred Jenkins' Builders on Friday night.

According to Siegel the team is wide-open—with no position cut-and-dried. Players who made the trip to Jefferson City were Elroy Burton, Bill Ray, Vern Harvey, Bill "Bones" Morgan, Jim Swafford, Bill Dey, Jim Fall, Herb Ford, Jr. Hill, Sonny Thomas, Don Broaddus, Bob Bartlett, Dave Johnson and Bob Rosenquist. Siegel, noting a shortage of pitching strength, said he'd certainly be delighted to have Bob Brown and Joe Imhauser, two journeymen performers on the staff. As of today both hurlers have indicated they didn't intend to play this season.

Five other players who didn't make the trip to Jefferson City are expected to be available for play in the future. They are "Bull" Higgins, the team's third sacker in 1958, Sam Wiggins, slugging first baseman, Jim Schumaker, strong-armed catcher, Jerry Burgoyne, shortstop-pitcher, and Russ Gilmore, the old pro at the keystone.

A. B. Fletcher Writes Home

Former Sedalians Hunt Big Game in Africa

Hunting wild game has become a real sport for former Sedalians A. B. Fletcher and his wife Ruth, and they are now in the wilds of Africa hunting lions, leopards, and taking a look at the elephants, as well as shooting some wild birds.

Fletcher, former owner of the Des Moines, Sedalia and Springfield bus lines, has been residing in Des Moines for the past several years. He began hunting wild game several years ago, starting his sport in Alaska and Canada, during which he had much success and enjoyment.

With his wife, he left the United States early in May to begin this trip and already two letters have reached the Democrat-Capital telling of the present safari in Africa. He also called attention that he desired "Whit" to see this story. "Whit" is W. G. Whitaker of Sedalia, a close friend of Fletcher.

"Ruth and I arrived at Nairobi, Kenya, May 21." It was here they obtained their hunting clothes, had boots made in eight hours and left Nairobi on the 23rd in jeeps for Arusha, Tanganyika, 180 miles away.

"Arusha has a population of 1,200 whites, 3,500 Asians and 5,000 Negroes. We departed from there at noon May 23 for the first camp, 60 miles away, after obtaining two licenses which allows us to kill 134 animals and an unlimited amount of birds. The licenses cost 11,000 shillings, a shilling worth 14 cents or $1,540 for the licenses.

"We are hunting with Stan Lawrence, Brown Safaris with two white hunters, plus one man who has been a white hunter in India and now breaking in here. My white hunter is Derrick Dunn, is English, 30 years old and one of the top hunters, and I hunted with him before. Ruth's hunter is David Ommanney, also English, and rated as a topnotch hunter.

"We ride each with his hunter in separate jeeps. Have 15 Negro boys along in a three ton truck loaded with food, tents and supplies. We have one 350 caliber rifle, two 375 caliber rifles, and two 30.06's. Cameras, field glasses, and plenty of other supplies. We have a kerosene refrigerator. Must boil and filter all drinking water. Each has a personal servant. We are eating the meat we kill (good) and I hope. Have a good cook. Derrick's regular cook hasn't appeared.

"Yesterday on way from Nairobi saw three elephants along the road, many giraffe, wildebeest, Kongoni, Grant and Tommy Gazelle, among others.

"Arusha is last town with good mail service for some time. Will try and send you running account day by day when we can mail."

In his second letter Fletcher wrote:

"May 25th, Ruth got a good Eland and Impala, I got a wildebeeste, Zebra, two Grants and one Tommy Gazelle. Both of us got half dozen partridge. We hunt Zebra for Lion Grants for Leopard bait.

"May 26th. Killed another Zebra and hung all baits. Saw Impala, Eland, Oryx and one elephant, no good heads. Elephant had only a 40-pound tusk and passed all. Ruth got a wildebeeste and Zebra, killed both running. We shot many partridge. Our personel valet brings tea and coffee to our beds at 5:30 a. m. and wakes us up.

"May 27th. Killed two more Zebra for bating and hung them in trees with hind legs just within reach of lion. We checked and found Lion and Leopard both working on the baits. It's slow now unless we run into an elephant or rhino worth taking. Daily we see several herds of Zebra, wildebeeste and Impala averaging around 50 to the herd. There were over 100 in the herd out of which I killed two this morning. Plenty of plains game including Kongoni.

"This is far too good hunting for "Whit", John Joe (John J. McGrath) and the gang that goes to Colorado, etc. I'm leaving my big guns in case any of them want to come over.

"May 28th. Lion, Leonpard, one each. Got a nine foot six inch black mane Lion on first bait with the 30.06. Ruth killed a Leopard at 6 p. m. and she had a good kill of a Stinebok in the morning. Pictures by car and lantern light.

"May 29th, 5:30 a.m. Lary going to town for petrol and mail this letter. Taking photo's when we don't forget." A. B. Fletcher.

Ben Hogan Man to Beat In US Open

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The U.S. Open Golf Championship goes up for grabs at Southern Hills next week and the experts say the man who beats Ben Hogan can have it.

Hogan, now 45 and clinging to fading golf glory, has a burning desire to become the first man ever to win the Open five times. He was bitterly disappointed last year when a suddenly lame back kept him from even starting in the championship.

Many knowledgeable golfers think this is Ben's year to make it five—even though he has virtually retired from competition and admits that his golf, particularly the putting, isn't what it used to be. He has devoted months of tailoring his game to fit the Southern Hills course and has visited it several times for practice.

If Hogan isn't the man to beat, it may be Sam Snead, a great golfer who never has won the Open and who sees his chance fading a bit more each year. Snead's booming shots are well suited to the 6,907-yard, par 70 Southern Hills course if he can make his putter behave.

Dissenting experts can point to almost any one of two or three dozen tested golfers who have shown they have the ability to win. The 162 who will go to the first tee on Thursday are the survivors of a record entry of 2,150. The qualifiers had to be very good even to get into the tournament.

The entry total wiped out the record of 1,928, who entered in 1954 when the Open was played at Baltusrol. The field includes nine former champions, three of whom had to qualify regionally, many of the top performers on the professional tour, and challengers from Australia, South Africa and Mexico.

If Hogan doesn't win this year and a new champion is crowned, he'll lose his automatic qualification as an ex-champion. Only the last five individual winners receive this exemption and Ben's winning years were 1948, 1950, 1951 and 1953.

Dick Mayer, as defending champion, heads this exempt list but in view of his record this year, Dick's chances of repeating are regarded as dim. The other former champions are Cary Middlecoff, 1949 and 1956; Jack Fleck, 1955; Ed Furgol, 1954; Julius Boros, 1952, who got in as one of the 10 low scorers last year; and Lew Worsham, 1947, Lloyd Mangrum, 1946, and Gene Sarazen, 1922 and 1932, who came through the sectional qualifying grind.

$50,000 Damage Suit Filed Against Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A $50,000 damage suit was filed Saturday against the St. Louis Cardinals by a 75-year-old man who was hit by a baseball outside of Busch Stadium Tuesday night.

The suit was brought by Louis Scher of St. Louis. He was on the way to the park to see the Cardinals play Pittsburgh when, he said, a ball hit in batting practice went over the pavilion roof and struck him on the right shoulder.

Scher said he was knocked down and suffered a hip injury. The suit, filed in Circuit Court, alleged negligence by the Cardinals and Anheuser-Busch Inc., owners of the stadium.

Akins Clamors For a Shot At Basilio

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Virgil Akins, the new king of the welters, clamors for Carmen Basilio, but Carmen pines for revenge and a potful of cash in a third match with Ray Robinson.

Akins, a hometown success at the ripe boxing age of 30, engraved Basilio in his future plans after erasing Vince Martinez with ease Friday night for the welterweight crown.

Eddie Yawitz, Akins' co-manager, said St. Louis or Syracuse, N.Y., Basilio's stamping grounds, would be logical for a title fight. That's if Basilio is interested in dropping down to the welters again and trying to reclaim the crown he gave up last September on winning the middleweight title from Robinson. In their second bout Robinson reclaimed the crown.

"Bring on Basilio," Yawitz hummed after Akins destroyed Martinez, the 29-year-old Paterson, N. J., boxer who had never been stopped before.

Basilio saw the match at the St. Louis arena. He said it only proved to him that Akins beat Martinez. As to whether he would be willing to meet Akins, Carmen just shrugged his shoulders and said he was more interested in Robinson.

Akins, who recently picked up a purse for only $52, made $31,000 Friday night. Two days before the fight he predicted that Martinez would last half as long as Isaac Logart did when Akins fought him in the welterweight elimination.

Logart was stopped late in the sixth round and Martinez was through on a technical knockout at 52 seconds of the fourth round.

A crowd of 9,777 paid $62,810 and saw Akins crack over a right hand to the jaw in the opening seconds of the first round after Vince carelessly left himself open.

That one punch ruined Vince, who eventually was decked seven times—the last time like pack of badly shuffled cards.

Akins is a real puncher and he can bang away with either hand. He has an unusually long reach (73 inches) for a 5-9 welterweight. Because of his inconsistency, Virgil never had been a big favorite with the fans although he can be a shifty, aggressive fighter when he is "on." Too many "off" nights almost ruined his career.

Doc Believes Tim Tam Has No Broken Bones

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. William N. Wright took X-rays of the injured Tim Tam after Saturday's Belmont Stakes, but he said he thinks no bones are broken.

Tim Tam finished second about five lengths behind Cavan in the race and when it was over, the Preakness and Kentucky Derby winner was limping badly.

He was taken to his stall in a horse ambulance and trainer Jimmy Jones immediately called for X-rays. Tim Tam favored his right front leg when he moved.

Dr. Wright voiced the opinion that the ligaments surrounding the sesamoid bone might be torn.

More X-rays are scheduled and Dr. Wright said he would not be able to tell exactly what the trouble is until Sunday.

John McMullin Holds 3-Stroke Lead at Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Lean John Mc Mullin rallied on the back nine when the pressure was the strongest Saturday and swept in with a 1-under-par 69 for 198 and a 3-stroke lead in the $25,000 Dallas Open.

McMullin, the tall young man from Fair Oaks, Calif., appeared to be bowing to the tensity of the situation as he shot the first seven holes of the third round three over par. But he birdied 8, 9 and 10, added another birdie on 17 then laid up for a conceded par putt on 18.

The crowd thought McMullin, making his first tour and after his first high place in a tournament, might crack in this round, which he, himself, called the most crucial of them all, but he didn't.

In fact, it was the pursuers who wilted. Tommy Bolt of Paradise, Fla., who started Saturday's third round with 130 to McMullin's 129, had a 1-over-par 71. He stayed in second place at 201.

Gary Player of Johannesburg, South Africa, who was third with 132, shot a 72.

Tied for third place as the tournament goes into its final round Sunday will be Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.; Earl Stewart Jr. of Dallas, Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., Mike Souchak of Grossinger's, N. Y., and Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C., all with 203.

J Bar H Will Feature Indian Spectacular

Harry B. Nelson, producer of the J Bar H Rodeo, travels thousands of miles each season "scouting out" the best feature attractions available for the annual rodeo at Camdenton, Mo., and he is especially proud of the features he has signed for the 1958 event, July 7 through July 12.

The 1958 feature attractions include a colorful Indian spectacular, starring Princess Yellow Rose. The young and beautiful Indian princess—a favorite of the crowds at all of her rodeo appearances to date — will be seen in an exotic tribal dance on a gigantic war drum. Yellow Rose and the other members of this exciting act, will perform during each of the six night performances.

Star of the rodeo is Rex Allen, Hollywood, Calif., popular western movie, radio and television entertainer. He will be accompanied to Camdenton by The Frontiersmen, talented western music makers.

In addition to Allen, Princess Yellow Rose, and The Frontiersmen, fans will see several other famous acts, along with eight action-packed contest events during each performance.

Rod and Gun Club Will Hold Meeting Monday

Sedalia's new Rod and Gun Club which has been in organizational form the past several weeks, will become a permanent organization at a meeting to be held Monday night, June 9 at the Pacific Cafe. The meeting is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

It is an open meeting and anyone who desires to learn more about the Club and those who are interested in becoming members are invited to attend the session.

Election of permanent officers will be held after which the by-laws of the new club will be set up.

Dublin Golfer Wins British Amateur Title

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Joe Carr, Dublin's happy haberdasher, defeated Alan Thirlwell of England Saturday 3 and 2 over the historic Old Course in the 36-hole final of the British Amateur Golf Championships.

It was the second British title for the mashie-thin Irishman who keeps in golfing trim by hitting 100 practice shots before breakfast and another 100 before retiring at night. He captured this same crown in 1953 and has played on six British Walker Cup teams.

Rademacher Confident He Will Beat Folley

NEW YORK (AP)—Pete Rademacher expressed confidence Saturday he will beat contender Zora Folley and earn another shot at heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson.

Cerv's Booming Bat Reason For Athletics' High Status

NEW YORK —(NEA) — It took Robert Henry Cerv a long time to get around to it, but at 32 the burly son of a Nebraska truck driver evidently decided that he had better get a piece of the more important baseball money.

Big Bob Cerv's booming bat has been one of the more pleasant surprises of the spring, is the principal reason why the Athletics are some 30 lengths better than they were last trip.

Cerv has had more early foot than any of the major league home run manufacturers, possesses a long lead in the American League in runs batted in.

Throughout three years with the Yankees and as many more switching between the Stadium and the Kansas City American Association farm, Cerv generally was pictured as a lumbering outfielder whose formidability at the plate hardly compensated for his outfielding and throwing.

And somewhat to your surprise you find the Yankees and American League managers who know him best saying that Cerv, the solid hitter, has a real chance to keep right on rolling.

Cerv, currently on a liquid diet, broken jaw wired together, can't see that he is doing anything differently.

"But he's pulling the ball better and took off 15 pounds," testifies Hank Bauer of the Yankees. "He can play left field in the Kansas City park well enough and it's tailor-made for his hitting — 365 feet to right center. He's anything but a butcher in the outfield and his arm is considerably more than adequate."

"We had to give the Athletics something for what we got from them," says Casey Stengel. "Cerv hits the fast ball, the curve and the change. He is pretty fast for a guy weighing 220 pounds. His principal trouble in New York was that he could not play left, the most difficult field at Yankee Stadium. Gene Woodling is the only one who played it right in my 10 years here. It's still a headache with us."

General Manager George Weiss of the Bombers frankly says that Cerv was rather overlooked in New York because of Manager Stengel's platooning.

"One thing that kept Bob with us for a couple of years was his hard hitting type of play," he explains. "He is a lot of man going into a base intent on breaking up a double play."

Cerv wasn't given too much opportunity in the Bronx. In '56 he banged up his right knee running into the wall in Detroit in early August. Last season with KC, he was sorely handicapped by the ankle on the same leg.

Cerv, a Czech, was signed by Scout Joe McDermott smack dab out of the University of Nebraska, where he did not get his degree until he was 24. He did not play in a class below Triple A. With the Cornhuskers, his basketball ability screened his baseball talent.

Cerv, father of six, expects a seventh child in August. "Got to hit," he says, "and will."

"If it ever comes to a stage where the A's don't want Cerv, which it won't,' says Al Lopez, "the White Sox will be pleased to take him off their hands. He's the kind of hitter we need. He'd come close to winning the pennant for us."

Bob Cerv broke his jaw three weeks ago in a collision at the plate with Red Wilson of the Tigers. It will be wired until around June 17.

"Being on the liquid diet, I get tired," he explains. "Just wait till I get my strength back."

Lionel Hebert Sets Pattern For Golfers

TULSA (AP)—National PGA Champion Lionel Hebert shot a one-over par 71 at the Southern Hills Country Club course Saturday to set the scoring pattern for the nation's golfers on National Golf Day.

The sturdy LaFayette, La., shotmaker beat National Open Champion Dick Mayer by five shots over the course where the 58th Open Championship of the United States Golf Assn., will be played starting next Thursday.

National Golf Day is sponsored by the Professional Golfers Assn. and players throughout the land contribute $1 to play, matching their scores based on handicaps against Hebert's score. The money goes to various charities and the caddy scholarship program sponsored by the PGA. Those who beat Hebert get medals.

In the past, the National Open champion played with the women's national champion but the system was revised this year to provide a more competitive test.

Hebert's score over the 6,907 yard rolling, tree-dotted layout with its par of 35-35-70 was considered a good effort because the PGA champ was taking only his second crack at the course. Meyer encountered difficulty on the front nine and soared to a 41 but steadied his game to shoot par coming in.

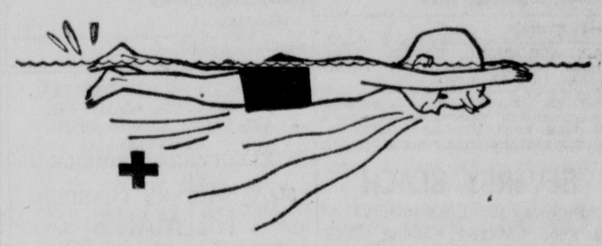
Hebert was out in 36, one over, and matched standard figures on the back, finishing strongly with birdies on the 16th and 17th holes after Mayer had narrowed his lead to 2 after 15 holes. Hebert also parred the tough 468-yard 18th with a four to pick up another stroke as Mayer missed the green with his second shot.

Hebert gave a gallery of almost 1,000 a thrill on the first hole as he drilled in a birdie three with a 6-foot putt while Mayer struggled out of a trap to get a bogie. This gave the Louisianan a lead he never relinquished.

He rolled in a 15-foot putt for another birdie on the par three 177-yard sixth hole after a double bogey six on the second hole ruined his chances to beat par on the outgoing nine.

TEACHING JOHNNY TO SWIM

SERIES TWO



Next step in teaching Johnny to swim is instruction in the prone kick glide or "steamboat." Have him lie face down on a bench, table, bed, or other flat surface and, keeping his legs straight but not stiff, move them up and down in a slow, even motion. When he (and Jimmy) can do this, have them get in waist-deep water, and with one boy towing the other by the hands, have them practice this kick. After practice, they should try it on their own.

Althea Gibson Wins Tennis Championship

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—Poised Althea Gibson Saturday defeated tense, 18-year-old Maria Bueno of Brazil, 6-1, 8-6, to win the Northern England Tennis Championship for the third straight year.

Ramanathan Krishman, India's top player, defeated Naresh Kumar, his Davis Cup teammate, 5-7, 6-3, 6-2, in the men's final.

Campanella's Cabin Cruiser Auctioned Off

GLEN COVE, N. Y. (AP)—Crippled Roy Campanella's $47,000 41-foot cabin cruiser was sold at auction Saturday for $20,500.

There were only five bidders in the crowd of 50 for the auction at the Glen Cove Marina. An agent for Irving Weiss, a New York auto dealer, made the highest bid for the twin-engined, custom built boat which can sleep eight.

The 36-year-old Los Angeles catcher was forced to sell as the result of the auto accident which fractured his neck last January.

CONVERTING MORE PEOPLE TO CHEVY!

Here's the car that puts you in a top-down, fun-hearted, go-places mood!

Once you've been infected by the fun of driving this Impala Convertible, no other car can take its place. Whisking along with the top down holds that same extra something as cooking in the open, dancing under the stars or just relaxing in a lawn chair—with only a cloud or two and the sweet smell of summer between you and the sky.

It's not simply that this car is a convertible—for it is much more than that. Your dealer's waiting now with the facts on the new Turbo-Thrust V8, the Safety-Girder frame and all the other features that mean more summer fun in a Chevy.

*Optional at extra cost

The Impala Convertible with Body by Fisher and Safety Plate Glass.* Air conditioning—temperatures made to order—for all-weather comfort. Get a demonstration!

RESOLUTION NO. 358

A RESOLUTION declaring it necessary to bring to the established grade all that part of Murray Avenue for the purpose of constructing and to construct a concrete curb and gutter on both sides of Murray Avenue from the South line of 12th Street, thence South to the North line of 14th Street, all public streets within the City of Sedalia, Missouri.

BE IT RESOLVED by the Council of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, as follows:

SECTION 1. The Council of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, finds, deems and declares it to be necessary to bring to the established grade all that part of Murray Avenue from the South line of 12th Street, thence South to the North line of 14th Street, for the purpose of constructing and to construct a concrete curb and gutter on both sides of Murray Avenue from the South line of 12th Street, thence South to the North line of 14th Street, all public streets within the said City of Sedalia, according to the plans and specifications to be prepared by the City Engineer of said City, and to be on file with the City Clerk of said City on or before the 23rd day of June, 1958.

SECTION 2. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the curbing and guttering herein provided for shall include all curbs and gutters and all returns of said curb and gutter at all intersections of streets and alleys, if any.

SECTION 3. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the City Engineer of said City of Sedalia shall prepare plans and specifications for said work and improvement together with an estimate of the cost thereof, and shall file the same with the City Clerk of said City of Sedalia on or before the 23rd day of June, 1958.

SECTION 4. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the cost of said improvement shall be paid by special assessment against the lots and lands fronting or abutting on either side of said part of Murray Avenue, a public street within said city as aforesaid, to be so improved and on said improvements being completed, special tax bills shall be issued aagainst said lots and lands chargeable with the cost of said improvement, and that the cost of bringing said part of said Murray Avenue to the established grade shall be included in the special assessment for the paying for and bringing of said street to the established grade and curbing and guttering all that part of said Murray Avenue, in the City of Sedalia, in manner and form as hereinbefore set forth.

SECTION 5. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that this resolution be published for seven (7) consecutive insertions in the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, a daily newspaper of general circulation printed and published in said City of Sedalia, Missouri.

PASSED by the Council of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, on the 2nd day of June, 1958.

ABE SILVERMAN,
President of the Council.

APPROVED by the Mayor of said City on this 2nd day of June, 1958.

Mayor.

Who Is He?

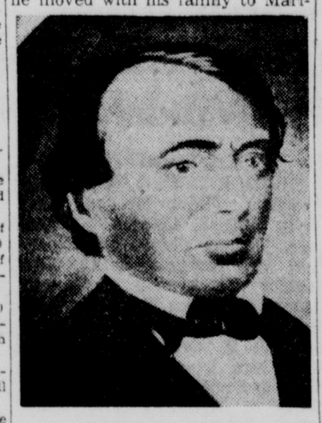
This Missouri Fur Trader Was New Mexico Governor

By State Historical Society of Missouri

The eldest of four brothers who played leading roles in the development of early trade in the West, he was murdered during a Mexican and Indian uprising in Taos a few months after he was appointed the first civil governor of the Territory of New Mexico. Who was he?

1. What was his background?

A. Born in Charleston, Virginia (now in West Virginia), in 1799, he moved with his family to Marietta, Ohio, in 1805, and the following year to St. Louis, where his father served as principal deputy surveyor of the Territory of Louisiana.



He was murdered by Mexican and Indian insurgents while Civil Governor of New Mexico.

2. What was his early career as a fur trader?

A. It is believed that he was employed an a trapper in the Sioux country as early as 1823. With three of his brothers he formed a fur-trading company with Ceran St. Vrain in 1826 and built a stockade between the prsent cities of Pueblo and Canon City, Colorado. In 1829 he was elected captain of a caravan which he conducted safely from the Missouri frontier to Santa Fe, although south of the Arkansas River it was attacked by hostile Indians. In 1832 his caravan returned to Missouri with $100,000 in specie and $90,000 in Mexican goods and mules.

3. What was the fame of the fort which his company built?

A. In 1828 his company began the building of the largest and finest frontier fort ever erected by private enterprise in the United States. Situated near what is now La Junta, Colorado, some 500 miles distant from the Missouri frontier, it was reported to have "reared its towers over the uncultivated wastes like a baronial castle which has withstood the wars and desolation of centuries." He insisted that it should be built of adobe and imported Mexican workmen to make and lay the brick. The fort served as a trading post, fortress, storehouse, and rendezvous for trappers, Indians, Mexicans, and government troops.

4. Where did he make his trading headquarters?

A. Upon the completion of the fort in 1832, he served as chief agent in his company's Taos and Santa Fe trade. In Taos, prior to 1836, he married Maria Ignacio Jaramillo, a sister-in-law of Kit Carson.

5. When was he appointed governor of the Territory of New Mexico?

A. Ranking high in the esteem of fellow traders, trappers, and Indians, in September, 1846, he was appointed civil governor after the American occupation of New Mexico. As governor, he was also in charge of Indian affairs and his report to the United States government gave valuable information on the Indians of the West and suggested measures for dealing with them.

In an attempt to overthrow American rule, Mexican and Indian innurrectionists broke into his home while he was visiting his family in Taos in January, 1847. His wife brought him his pistols and entreated him to defend himself but hoping to appease the mob, he refused. He was scalped alive, then murdered, and later the mob paraded through the streets bearing his scalp stretched with brass-headed tacks over a board He was buried in Taos, but later his body was given a final resting place in the National Cemetery in Santa Fe.

6. How is his memory honored?

A. His portrait, unveiled in 1910, hangs in the Senate chamber of the state capitol in Santa Fe; a monument erected in 1910 and a gateway erected in 1933 mark the site of the fort; and replicas of the fort are in the Museum of the Colorado Historical Society in Denver and the Museum of New Mexico in Santa Fe.

7. What was his name?

A. Charles Bent.

Limited Area Branch Bank Law Offered

Olen Monsees, Smithton, vice-president of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation, has been named to a 20-member Missouri Committee for Better Banking Facilities. The committee is made up of educators, business, labor and farm leaders — including four former governors of Missouri.

This committee is actively seeking signatures on an initiative petition which would put a proposed limited area branch banking law on the ballot at the general election Nov. 4.

"Circulation of the initiative petition across the state and solicitation of signatures has already started," a spokesman said, "and first returns indicate great response from the people."

Signing the petition does not mean a vote for or against the proposed law, the spokesman added. "It simply means that the signer agrees with thousands of his fellow Missourians that the proposal should be put on the ballot so that the peopl may express their opinion directly on the limited area branch banking idea."

The proposed law would allow banks to establish branches only within the county in which the bank is located. In "urban areas," defined in the proposed act as cities with populations over 400,000, banks would be allowed to set up branches within 12 miles of the city limits. In no case, according to the proposal, would a bank be allowed to set up a branch unless the Commissioner of Finance of the state found that the convenience and needs of the community justified the opening of the branch.

State 4-H Club Week

Twelve delegates will be attending State 4-H Club Week at Columbia, Mo., June 11-14 as follows: Marilyn Reid, Prairie Ridge, Anita Rhoads and Sara Oswald, Quisenberry Hustlers; Lucille Rugen and Bill Raines, Lamine; Delta Reine, Tanglenook; Leland Finley, Striped College; Bill Stephens, Robert Leftwich and Barry Ellis, Longwood Neighbors, Larry Callis, Hughesville Happy Helpers and Jimmy Wood, Houstonia.

Delta Reine was selected to have her way paid by the Sedalia Business and Professional Woman's Club and Leland Finley was selected as the voting delegate to represent the group.

Glenda Rhoads, Quisenberry Hustlers, and Jeannette Edmundson, Flat Creek will attend the Citizenship Ceremony at State Club Week. This ceremony honors the 4-H'ers who are in their last year of club work.

Caroline Staley, Striped College, will attend a special luncheon during State Club Week for the last year's Key Award winners. Glenda Rhoads was a Key Award winner too but will not be able to attend the luncheon.

Marketing In The 4-H Program

Our young people that grow up on Missouri farms acquire many useful skills. They learn how to prepare the seed bed, plant, cultivate and harvest the various crops. But learning to organize and operate a successful farm business is a different kind of a skill. It's skill of mind rather than body or hands, but we certainly can help these young people in their 4-H Clubs to learn about the business through study and experience.

There are many communities in Missouri now interested in agricultural marketing. Their interest is directed through our 4-H Clubs to what we call the Marketing Activity for the entire club. This activity is club selected and worked on by the members and their parents throughout the year.

There's a new circular on 4-H Marketing as an activity. You can get it at the Extension Office.

In marketing, 4-H'ers learn there are four major forms of business: the individually owned business, the partnership; the private corporation; and cooperatives.

Often, the entire club, parents and leaders visit a grain elevator. The manager will explain how the grain is handled after it is brought to the elevator by the farmer. He'll tell them the different things that affect the price of this grain, such as moisture content, the grades, the amount of weed seeds and inert matter in the grain. The 4-H'ers will also see the movement of the grain through the elevator and the manager will tell them how prices are determined by the central markets.

Clubs also visit milk plants, cotton gins, stock yards, vegetable markets and many other markets. The group becomes informed on how products are handled at the market and what affects the price.

4-H members have been doing some special work on marketing. In the quality egg program they learn how to determine the egg grades and give illustrated talks at meetings regarding the consumers use of eggs. The same sort of a program is being conducted with broilers.

The American Institute of Cooperative offers a $50 scholarship to help defray expenses of a 4-H member to their national meeting each year. This year it will be held in Pennsylvania, August 24-27. Also the American Institute of Cooperatives award 10 plaques to 10 outstanding clubs in the state of Missouri each year for cooperative activities.

The Chicago Board of Trade provides a national trip and tour to Chicago each year and Missouri sends two outstanding crops boys to this meeting. Board of Trade in Kansas City offers 25 4-H delegates a trip to the American Royal to make the tour of grain elevators, Board of Trade and receive an insight of Marketing.

The marketing activity offers 4-H members an opportunity to observe, study and participate in marketing processes. We know that the success of every production enterprise is influenced and in many enterprises largely determined by good practices used — in purchasing materials.

Mrs. Norman L. Griswold

Ruth Waters, Norman Griswold Married In Baptist Church

Miss Ruth L. Waters, 2015 East 12th, and Norman L. Griswold, 664 East 17th, exchanged vows at half past two o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 1, with the Rev. Kenneth W. Davidson, pastor of East Sedalia Baptist Church, assisted by the Rev. J. R. Wallace, pastor of First Baptist Church, performing the double ring ceremony. The church was decorated with three large baskets of white gladioli, pink roses and carnations.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Waters and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Griswold.

Mrs. Clyde Waters, 509 East Fifth, organist, played the traditional wedding music and John Chronister, Blue Springs, vocalist, sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because".

The two candelabra held burning tapers which were lighted by Miss Shirley Kirkpatrick, 1800 East 12th, and Miss Linda Momberg, 1405 East Ninth. They wore identical ballerina length gowns of pale blue batiste fashioned after the matron of honor. They wore wrist corsages of pink carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a waltz length gown of imported Chantilly lace over bridal satin. The long sleeves tapered to a point over the wrist. The fitted bodice had a scopped neckline with a row of tiny satin covered buttons in back and a front panel of lace and satin extending to the bottom of the skirt. The remainder of the skirt was fully gathered to a dropped waistline. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses tied with satin streamers.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Kenyon Snow, Kingsville, sister of the bride. Her ballerina length gown of pale blue lace over taffeta was fashioned with short sleeves. The bodice featured a scoop neckline designed with a small bow in the back. Her bouffant skirt was gathered to a dropped waistline and her cascade bouquet was of pink carnations.

As his best man the groom chose his brother, Dean Griswold, 664 East 17th. Douglas Griswold, Fortuna, and Joe Waters, 1509 West Fifth, and Ralph Waters, Kansas City, brothers of the bride, ushered.

The bride's mother was attired in a navy lace dress with pink accessories and pink carnation corsage. The mother of the groom wore a pale blue lace dress with navy accessories and pink carnation corsage.

A reception was held in the church dining room for approximately 175 guests immediately following the ceremony. Three baskets of white orange blossoms and pink roses decorated the room. The four-tiered wedding cake was decorated with pink rosebuds. Mrs. Richard Hodges, Independence, and Mrs. Joe Waters and Mrs. Ralph Waters, sisters-in-law of the bride, were servers. Mrs. Norris Johnson, Kansas City, was in charge of the guest book and Miss Barbara Guymon, Sedalia, in charge of the gift book.

For traveling, the bride wore a pink dress with tucked bodice and softly pleated skirt. Her accessories and rose corsage were white. The couple will spend their honeymoon in Texas.

The bride graduated from Smith-Cotton High School with the class of 1954 and CMSC in Warrensburg. She is a member of Sigma, Sigma, Sigma social sorority and Alpha Phi Delta and Pi Omega Pi honorary business fraternities.

The groom is a graduate of Smith-Cotton High School with the class of 1954 and is presently a senior at CMSC. He will graduate with the summer class in August. He was formerly employed with the news staff of The Sedalia Capital.

Cradle Shower

A cradle shower honoring Mrs. Jess Hageman was given on Tuesday evening, June 3, by Mrs. J. M. Yount, 2510 Stevenson.

Green and yellow streamers decorated the lace covered table which was centered with a lovely bouquet of roses. A bassinet placed next to the table carrying out the green and yellow color theme with gold letters spelling out the words "Baby Hageman" held the gifts. A background of green and yellow streamers which were fastened to the top of the window showered to the bassinet.

After games were played and the prizes given to the honoree, little Debbie Harmon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Harmon, presented the gifts to Mrs. Hageman.

Refreshments were served to the following guests: Mrs. L. M. Staples, Mrs. Charles Estes, Mrs. Wallace Elliott, Mrs. R. A. Harmon, Mrs. Edna Hageman, Mrs. O. B. Decker, Mrs. H. W. Burrus, Mrs. James Hageman, Mrs. Harley Hageman, Miss Jerry Dane, Eldon, Mrs. J. M. Yount and the honoree, Mrs. Jess Hageman.

Those unable to attend sent gifts.

During the course, attended by Kirksville alumni, Dr. Glaze met many friends and attended several interesting lectures on diagnosis and other subjects of interest to the profession. A graduate of the class of 1917, he believes he was the oldest man to attend the course. He met only two members of his graduating class still in the profession.

Dr. Glaze was accompanied by Mrs. Glaze. They reside at 620 West Fourth.

Marriage Vows Solemnized

The marriage of Miss Lavada Windler, Marshall, daughter of Mrs. H. L. Windler, Nevada, and L. B. Akin, Azusa, Calif., son of Mrs. John Friess, Sedalia, took place Saturday afternoon, May 24, in Nevada. The candlelight ceremony was read by the Rev. Pliney H. Elliott at the First Christian Church.

Arrangements of pink carnations entwined with greenery provided a background for the ceremony.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Sally Shaw sang, "I Love You Truly" and during the ceremony "The Lord's Prayer". She was accompanied by Mrs. Chester Whitehead, organist, who also played the traditional wedding music.

The tapers were lighted by Craig West, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert West, Dixon.

For her wedding the bride chose a beige dacron suit with which she wore matching accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Rombach, brother-in-law and sister of the bride, were the attendants. Mrs. Rombach wore a dress of beige print and a corsage of yellow baby mums.

Mrs. Windler, mother of the bride, wore a dress of rose print with pink carnation corsage and Mrs. Friess, mother of the groom, was attired in a navy print dress with pink carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors. The wedding cake and punch were served by Mrs. Myrl Church and Mrs. Robert West, sisters of the bride, assisted by Miss Hatti Smith, Mrs. Lloyd Stratton and Mrs. Stanley Butner. Miss Pearl Smith had charge of the guest book.

Recently Wed

Miss Carol Newell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Newell, Nelson, and Dorsey Hutchison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Hutchison, Nelson, were united in marriage at the home of the groom's parents at half past two Sunday afternoon, June 1. The Rev. Gerald Gill, Rocheport, uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Mindell

Mindells Will Observe 50th Wedding Anniversary Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Mindell, 618 West Broadway, will observe their 50th wedding anniversary with open house at Bothwell Hotel on Sunday, June 15, from 3 to 5 oclock in the afternoon. No invitations are being issued but they will be happy to see their friends there.

Mr. and Mrs. Mindell were both born in Russia, he in the part that is now Poland. In 1903 Sol came to this country going first to Chicago where his brother was and later to St. Joseph. In 1906 Elizabteh Levine, who was then about 15, left her parents and other brothers and sisters in Russia and came to America to her brother, Leo S. Levine, in St. Joseph. Then she met Sol Mindell and when she was just 17 she married him. It was an extra special occasion for the Levines because not only was Elizabeth marrying Sol, but in a double ceremony Leo was married to Sophia Rosenthal. The two couples had planned the last few years to have their golden wedding celebration together here, but a year ago Mrs. Levine became ill with a heart ailment and they are unable to make the trip to Missouri, from Los Angeles, where they now live.

After Bill Mindell, brother of Sol, came to Sedalia to work for Allen Chasnoff, and their parents came here from Russia, Sol and Elizabeth left St. Joseph and came here, too, and have made their home here since that time. That was in 1915.

Sol's father owned a grocery store at Boonville and New York. Sol went into the grocery business, too, having a store on Ingram and one at Pettis and Lamine. When Sol became ill and the doctor told him to take it easy, he did. He went out of the grocery business and later into the hide, wool and fur business at Main and Kentucky. They operated that business for 23 years, and about a year ago retired. Of course, there was a family of five boys to take care of, and the family always came first, but all the time she could spare Elizabeth helped out in whatever business Sol was in.

The five boys all were graduated from high school here and all five served in World War II, with none of them even injured. The Mindells feel they have much to be thankful for on the golden anniversary, and to help them celebrate this happy occasion all five sons and their families will be home. The anniversary came a little earlier but for the observance they waited until school was out everywhere so the children could all come. So they expect to have with them Jack A. Mindell, his wife, son and daughter from Island Park, Ill.; Marcus Mindell, a bachelor, Los Angeles, Calif.; Joseph Mindell, wife and daughter, San Antonio, Tex.; Harold Mindell, wife and three daughters, San Mateo, Calif.; Stanley Howard Mindell, wife, two sons and a daughter, Aurora, Ill. Coming also are Mr. Mindell's brother, Leon Mindell, of Highland Park, Ill., and his two sisters, Mrs. Helen Zidell and Mrs. Bess Thorwolden and his niece, Miss Belle Zidell, all of Aurora, Ill.

Mrs. Mindell has another brother in this country besides Leo. He is Charles Levine, who lives in Philadelphia. Two sisters came to America, too, but her parents and two other sisters died in Russia. It was just before World War I that her parents had passports and were ready to come to America but the war came before they could get away and so they were never able to leave and later died there. The two sisters were lost, they never heard from them, but she knows they must have died in the wandering from place to place, because they would have gotten in touch with the family in this country if they had ever managed to get to America.

Mr. and Mrs. Mindell have never been back to Russia. They never wanted to go, not even for a visit. "America is the most wonderful place in the world," Mrs. Mindell said. "We should kiss the soil." Only those who have known other countries, they both tried to stress, know what it means to live in America. They love Sedalia, too, the town, the people, they would never want to live any place else.

Patricia Brown Exchanges Vows With J. Burnett

Miss Patricia Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Brown, 2342 West Third, became the bride of Jerry Burnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Burnett, Sweet Springs, at six o'clock Sunday evening, June 1. The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. E. W. Bartley at the First Methodist chapel.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white lace chemise. Her headpiece was a crown of pearls to which was fastened a small nose veil. She carried a bouquet of white and red roses.

The bride is a graduate of Smith-Cotton High School and attended CMSC at Warrensburg. The groom graduated from Sweet Springs High School, spent five years in the Navy and attended CMSC where he will be enrolled for the summer term beginning June 9.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Alexander, Route 3, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Ruthann, to Edward Anthony Romano, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Romano, Sr., Long Island, N.Y. The wedding will take place on Sunday, June 15. Miss Alexander is a graduate of Green Ridge High School.

Your Wardrobe

by Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

TWO WEEKS WITH PAY

Most of us look forward to "That Two Weeks With Pay". Whether you stay at home or take a trip you will want to have something special to wear. For trips it is best to plan your wardrobe in advance. After you decide where you are going and some of the things you will be doing, it is quite simple to plan your wardrobe First have something appropriate for traveling. If you go by train, plane or bus a summer suit is perfect. Keep in mind the blouse and skirt with the right belt, can double as separates when you get to your destination. Have as many of your clothes crease - resistant as possible. Take lingerie that is drip dry. You will need less thereby making more room for accessories. Include a dark cotton that can be dressed up or down. A dressy dress, and of course a good selection of separates. If you are going to a resort you will need more elaborate sportswear and dresses or separates suitable for dressing for dinner. Purses and shoes require lots of space so try to limit the number. Remember costume jewelry, scarves and flowers can change many a costume Include all the cosmetics you will need, plus sunburn lotions—of course you must be sure they are in nonspill containers. Pack your things well, and hang them immediately upon arrival. Don't take too much luggage, it can become a horrible bore and frighten your hostess to death if you are staying in a private home. Have your clothes planned so that once you arrive you will glide through one occasion after another without costume worry.

Single Ring Ceremony Unites Carolyn Ryan, Normand Fontaine

Before a chancel decorated with arrangements of white gladioli, pink majestics and jade with burning white cathedral candles in tall candelabra placed before a background of jade, Miss Carolyn Jo Ryan became the bride of Normand E. Fontaine. The single ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Frank C. Laudick C. P.P. S. at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church at ten o'clock Saturday morning, May 31.

Miss Ryan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ryan, 308 South Grand, and Fontaine is the son of Mrs. Marie A. Fontaine, Gardner, Mass.

Mrs. Earl Paxton, 710 West Second, organist, played the nuptial high mass and used the Liturgical processional and recessional. Girls of the Sacred Heart High School Choir sang "Mother Beloved", "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother", "Ave Maria" and the "Mass of St. Rita".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an eggshell white gown of imported Italian silk trimmed with re-embroidered Alencon lace. It was fashioned with short sleeves and a low neckline which was outlined with a wide handcut band of lace shaping to a soft V at the center front. Alencon lace encircled the waist of the longated bodice. The bouffant skirt of silk was gathered at the sides and back and lengthened into a sweep train. The bridal headdress was a small fitted cap of lace, edged with pearls which held her double fingertip illusion. Her bouquet was of stephanotis tied with a shower of stain streamers.

Miss Margaret Ann Handley, Raytown, was maid of honor. Her ballerina length dress of blossom pink lace over taffeta was fashioned with circular skirt topped with a fitted Empire bolero with boat neck and three-quarter length sleeves. A cummerbund of shirred chiffon defined the waistline. Her headdress was a ballerina crown of pink outlined with pearls and trimmed with a circle face veil. She carried a bouquet of pink Esther Reds.

As bridesmaid the bride chose Mrs. Jerry Roberts, Sedalia. Her dress and flowers were identical to that of the honor attendant.

Thomas Giltner, Kansas City, served as best man and Thomas Keating, Jr., Sedalia, was groomsman. Ushers were Robert Ryan, Kansas City, brother of the bride, and William Hodges, Sedalia.

Miss Jeanne Peabody, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Peabody, was flower girl. Her dress was of pink embroidered nylon sheer and styled with a very full skirt and tied with a taffeta sash. She wore a bandeau of tiny pink roses and carried a basket of rose petals.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ryan chose a dress of silk lace over peau de soi in ashes of roses color with accessories in a lighter tint. She wore a corsage of cymbidium. The groom's mother was attired in a pale blue embroidered cotton satin with accessories of blue and white. Her corsage was of cymbidium.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held for 150 guests at the Hotel Bothwell. Decorations consisted of baskets of white gladioli, pink majestics and jade. The bride's table was covered with a white net cloth over pink and centered with a four-tierd wedding cake. Silver candelabra holding burning tapers were on either side. Miss Jane Hurley, Sedalia, cut the cake and Mrs. Robert Koger, Sedalia, and Mrs. Paul Wright, Sedalia, presided at the punch bowls. Mrs. David Donelson, Rolla, was in charge of the guest book.

Following the reception the couple left for a wedding trip to Lake Taneycomo. For traveling, the bride wore a navy and white polka dot sheath with navy duster trimmed in marching material. Her accessories were white and she wore a white orchid. After June 9 the couple will be at home in Warrensburg.

The bride is a graduate of Sacred Heart High School and attended CMSC in Warrensburg. She is employed at the Central Missouri State College Library. The groom graduated from Gardner High School and served four years with the Air Forc. He will receive his BS degree in education from CMSC in August and will teach in the Lindbergh School System, St. Louis County, this fall.

Miss Barbara Ann Foster Bride Of Richard Lee Alvis

Miss Barbara Ann Foster and Richard Lee Alvis were united in a double ring ceremony at two o'clock Sunday afternoon, May 25, with the Rev. Charles M. Criebaum performing the ceremony in the Baptist Church, Macks Creek. The chancel decorations consisted of baskets of cut flowers.

Miss Foster is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Foster, Warsaw, and Alvis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Alvis, Macks Creek.

Mrs. Fern Creach, pianist, played a selection of traditional wedding music and accompanied the vocalist, Mrs. Floyd Bonner, Macks Creek, as she sang "Always."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a white ballerina length dress of nylon chiffon. The dress was designed and made by the bride. She carried a white Bible on which was placed a corsage of pink carnations. Her accessories were white and her only jewelry was a necklace which had been worn by brides of five generations.

Best man was Jimmy Lee Bonner, Camdenton. James Foster, Warsaw, Robert Alvis, Richard Elders and Bennie Bennett of Macks Creek ushered.

Both the mother of the bride and the mother of the groom wore light blue dresses. Their corsages were of white carnations.

A reception was held in the church basement following the ceremony for approximately 110 guests. The room was decorated with bouquets of fresh cut garden flowers. Servers at the bride's table were Miss Linda King and Miss Bessie Thompson, Warsaw, Miss Mary Lee Foster and Miss Joyce Duckworth, Climax Springs. Mrs. Phylis Duckworth, Kansas City, was in charge of the guest book.

Immediately following the reception the couple left on a honeymoon through the western states to return on June 1 making their home in Warsaw.

The bride is a graduate of Warsaw High School and the groom graduated from Macks Creek High School and is employed with the State Highway Department, presently stationed at Warsaw.

Wedding Announcement

The marriage of Miss Martha Ann Pauley to Robert L. Rissler has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Altie A. Pauley, Columbia. Rissler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Rissler, Sedalia.

The wedding was performed on June 5 at Little Bonne Femme Baptist Church, Columbia, with the Rev. Robert Bartel reading the ceremony.

The couple was attended by Miss Joann Crawford, Rollings Fork, Miss., and Orval D. Johnson, Osceola.

The bride has completed her second year in the home economics department at Missouri University and the groom will graduate in August from the school of engineering at MU.

Annual Alumni Banquet in Syracuse

The 11th annual high school alumni banquet was held at the Syracuse School on Friday evening, May 30, with a large attendance reported. The table decorations consisted of bouquets of garden flowers.

The program was in the form of a play with the setting being in an attic. The characters were alumni members, who put on a fashion show wearing clothes of by gone days. David Wittman served as master of ceremonies, assisted by his daughter, Janice. Music was furnished by Albert Ellis, pianist.

At the business session the president, D. F. Schroeder, presided. The following new officers were elected; president, Elmer Fowler; vice-president, Mrs. Arthur Broderson; secretary, Miss JoAnn Wittman; treasurer, Forrest Lewis. They voted to change the date of the meeting to the first Saturday in June.

Eighteen classes were represented with 46 present. The banquet was served by the Syracuse Homemakers Club with several 4-H girls serving as waitresses.

The meeting adjourned with the group singing the school song.

Those participating in the program were Joan Arnold, Billie Raines, Ernest Arnold, Jeanette Rugen, Lucille Rugen, Catherine Arnold, Florence Arnold and Barbara Johnson. Several group selections were also presented.

French Flowers Bloom In Sedalia Back Yard

A large bunch of bright yellow fleur-de-lis is now in full bloom in the backyard at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Kelly Scruton and Charles Scruton, northeast corner of Third and Grand.

These flowers came from France. They were growing around the tomb of Joan of Arc during World War I and Col. George H. Scruton, father of George, Charlie and Kelly Scruton, who was serving with the U.S. Forces in France, dug a few of the bulbs up and brought them home with him. He set them out and each year since a few of them have bloomed but this year all of them are in bloom making a mass of yellow flowers.

About Town

Mr. and Mrs. Cord Hinken and daughter, Kathy, of Sedalia, were weekend guests in St. Charles, Mo., where they attended the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Achelpohl of St. Charles and Le Roy Hunt of Windsor, at which Kathy was flower girl.

A reception followed the ceremony at which there were 300 guests.

Attending the wedding, also, were Mrs. Mae Buchholz, aunt of the bridegroom, and her son, Cecil Buchholz of LaMonte.

Mrs. Florence Cerny of 905 South Prospect has returned home after attending the graduation of her grand-niece, Miss Mary Jacklyn Dulle, from Helias High School in Jefferson City.

Miss Dulle graduated with the highest honors, and was awarded a four-year renewable scholarship to Mount St. Scholastica College, Atchison, Kan. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack F. Dulle and the granddaughter of Mrs. Anna Moore Thomas, formerly of Sedalia.

Planters Add a Green Touch Needed on Terraces, Patios

AP Newsfeatures

Terraces and patios need planters to add that touch of green. The handy husband can make them in a few hours at little expense.

Here's one, designed for construction in the home workshop, composed of three tapered boxes, each nesting inside the other.

And if you want to make life easier for the little woman, affix the planter to rubber-wheeled casters to make it mobile; no more tugging and shoving, then, to move a flower box, heavy with earth, from one location to another.

A happy choice of lumber would be western red cedar beveled siding. This wood is inexpensive, has a natural resistance to rot, and has a long life, whether painted or unfinished.

Here's the step by step procedure:

Buy four eight-foot lengths of the beveled siding. It comes in 9 ½-inch widths. Beveled siding is ¾ inch thick on the top edge and tapers to a thickness of inch at the bottom. Also buy one piece of exterior grade fir plywood about 24 by 24 inches. Most lumber yards will cut it to size.

Now rough cut 12 pieces from the siding, each piece 22 inches in length. Each piece then must be cut with a slight miter at each end for a taper so the boxes will nest.

There are two ways to do it: (1) If you have a miter jig, cut one end at an angle or eight degrees, the other end at an angle of five degrees. Or (2) mark a point on the bottom edge 1 and three-sixteenths inches in from one end and another point fifteen-sixteenths of an inch in from the other end.

Cutting at an angle across these points from the top end edges will give you the eight- and five-degree cuts.

As you assemble the four sections of each of the three boxes, lap the eight-degree end over the five-degree end in a "continuous lap" method. The result will be a uniform taper.

Put the sections together first with a single nail at each corner. Then join them permanently with two-inch No. 7 brass flathead or oval head screws and brass "finishing" washers.

Cedar is strong wood but tends to split, so take pains to drill through the overlapping ends with a bit only slightly smaller than the shank of the screw. Use two screws for each bottom corner of each box; one screw about an inch down from the top edge will do the job for the upper corners.

Bottom Edge Is Thinner

Be careful, too, in driving the lower screws because the siding is thinner on the bottom edge. Now cut the plywood in a square piece so it will extend out about a quarter inch on all sides of the bottom of the lower box.

Rip a two-inch strip off the thick edge of the remaining length of siding and use this to form facing for the edge of the platform. Place this facing also in the "continuous lap" method, using either nails or screws, and let it rise about half an inch above the platform.

The lower part of the facing will hang below the platform, producing a skirt to conceal the casters. The casters must be of the plate variety, which mount with screws.

The wheels, not smaller than 1 ½ inches, should be rubber. Composition or cast iron wheels will not roll smoothly over terraces, patios, driveways or walks as the planter is moved around.

Nest the three boxes inside each other — and joyfully call the little woman to come and inspect your masterpiece.

Knotty Pine Is Flexible Wood Finish

By John O. B. Wallace
Associated Press

Knotty Pine paneling is a flexible decorative product. It has many faces and finishes. It can be modern or traditional, and it can run the gamut of colors.

A number of new finishes and effects now make it suitable for many types of interior decoration in nearly all rooms of a house.

Two factors are important for best results. The desired effect should be considered beforehand, and the features of the room in which paneling is to be installed should be studied.

Experiment with colors on a piece of waste wood before starting a paneling job. Each piece of paneling should be colored prior to its installation on the wall. This eliminates streaks left by running paint and avoids raw corners or edges where brushes will not reach after the paneling is in place.

Also store the wood on the site for about 10 days, separating each board with sticks, to allow air to circulate freely around each piece of paneling. This permits the lumber to adjust to the atmospheric conditions of the room.

Sanding Is Important

Important to the final finish is sanding. Each piece should be sanded carefully to remove all superficial marks, dirt and rough spots before color is applied.

Care in finishing at each step will pay dividends in the beauty and durability of the job.

If a room does not have good natural illumination, lighter woods should be used. For well lighted rooms, darker woods may be used. Lighter woods in the western pine group include ponderosa pine, Idaho white pine and sugar pine. Other light woods include white fir, lodgepole pine and Englemann spruce. Rich, darker effects can be achieved with inland red cedar, incense cedar or larch.

In experimenting with waste wood, allow the stain or paint to dry. Then look at it in the light it will receive when the paneling is in place. Keep one thing in mind — when the room is paneled, the finish will appear slightly darker.

The paint or stain to be used should be brushed liberally right onto the wood, using long strokes with the grain. Then, with a soft cloth, wipe it off. The length of time the pigment remains on the wood before wiping will determine the depth of color.

To enrich the effect of knots, some expert wood finishers prefer to buff the knots lightly with steel wool after wiping off the paint or stain.

Tricks From the Experts

Another trick used by experts is to dust powdered color over the natural tiny pockets found around knots. Gold or aluminum dust will highlight the varied shapes of knots. Bright reds and blues, dusted in deftly but lightly, also will accent knots. Actual dabs of paint also may be applied but they should be wiped off quickly.

Use of more than one color permits alternate methods of application. Harmonious colors may be applied in alternate vertical strokes, wiping down the grain while it is still wet. The wipe-down action blends the edges of the colors, resulting in ripples of alternating colors in a pleasant graduation.

Two colors, one on top of another, also may be used. For a driftwood finish, each piece is coated first with a dull green stain which is wiped off evenly at once. After it has dried, the paneling is painted with a neutral gray, and the gray is wiped off more thoroughly at the edges than in the center.

An uneven graduation is achieved. The green shows through more at the edges than in the center. Because the grain is visible, the paneling has the appearance of mossy driftwood.

Other color recipes include mixing equal parts of chrome green and chrome yellow in oil with a mineral spirits thinner. Brush the mixture on the wood, then wipe it off. After the desired color is obtained, let the paneling dry thoroughly. Then finish it as desired, with clear varnish, shellac, lacquer or wax.

Two-Home-Family Nation Expected in Next Decade

NEW YORK — (NEA) — A second home may become as common as a second car within the next decade.

That's the prediction of many experts in the building field. Already, they point out, weary apartment dwellers are escaping to "the outside" and become home owners, even if it's just for that long weekend respite.

The summer or vacation home market is growing also among families with a monthly mortgage to meet on their everyday homes. And, say the experts, it will continue to grow as others feel the need of a retreat as suburbs build up.

This need, explains architect-write Bob Englebrecht, is almost as if the town house-country home living of a past century had come full cycle, with this big difference: a summer home of the next decade won't be a whim of the very rich.

"Those I know going in for summer homes," he says, "are those with incomes under $10,000.

"Most of them feel that the investment is not a calculated risk but a normal growth. Each year as Dad brings home a little more money, the family goes up the scale of living. They also know they can sell these homes for almost 100 per cent profit."

The idea of having a second home to lounge in is exciting to most, especially the young in heart. But even more exciting is that these no longer are one-room cracker boxes, with outdoor facilities.

Key to success of a vacation home is the off-key approach people can take to it. Some get so off-key, Englebrecht adds, that the owners become confused and ask, "How informal can you get"

Architects find the second-home area challenging because they have a freer hand. Various sallies into economical vacation home design show what can be done with a budget in mind. Among these are a $7,000 T-shaped, prefabricated structure by Norman Cherner and a $1,000 geodesic dome (half a bubble) home by R. Buckminster Fuller.

Another example of an easy-to-erect and inexpensive home is A-frame beach cabin. It looks like an elongated tepee and sports two bedrooms on the top deck with a porch, living room, built-in kitchen and bathroom on the first deck.

Extensive use of beams and panels, both for support and decoration; rampant colors, and rugged bright materials add to their individuality.

Probably the biggest selling feature of a second home is its freedom from concise and dogmatic life — the Main Street traditions of what a home should be.

"If people are living in a house they like, they might not go away," is Englebrecht's explanation for the growing popularity of colorful second homes. "It seems they leave things that tend to plague them."

The extremely foresighted saw the trend coming when families rushed to camp sites after World War II. But Englebrecht points out an interesting sidelight to the theory that people wan to rough it.

"People are less inclined to pioneer for themselves once they get through the day-to-day complexities of working and traveling to work," he says.

"They don't want to wear themselves out building. Thus a builder who offers them a package vacation home for a set monthly payment probably will make a sale."

Still, building a vacation cabin is one of the strongest vestiges left of the do-it-yourself trend, according to a spokesman for the Douglas Fir Plywood Associaiton.

"People," he says, "feel that expert workmanship isn't as important out in the woods or on the beach, and these are the normal sites for second homes.

"Thus, there's a fertile field for the home handyman who wants to put up the shell of a basic structure and improve it in gradual stages."

Future Doughboys Expect To Have Personal Rockets

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The scene is a future war. The American infantry is attacking.

Suddenly one platoon breaks away from the advancing line and zooms rapidly forward like a swarm of angry bees.

They take one hill, two hills, three hills—as the startled enemy panics and flees.

Later the whole platoon is called before the beaming general who says: "There has never been an exploit to match this in the entire annals of warfare. It's fantastic. I am proud of you men, and I'm recommending every one of you for the Medal of Honor."

The members of the platoon look uneasily at one another.

Finally an honest private blurts out: "Aw, hell, general we ain't no heroes. We just set our rear rocket motors too high—and could not stop. If we hadn't run out of fuel, we'd still be going."

This little fantasy could come true if a new portable rocket developed by an ex-Army technical sergeant works out. Strapped to the rear of a doughboy it holds promise of turning him into a combination racehorse and antelope.

"He can run faster, can jump across rivers, scale walls and cliffs, jump extraordinary heights—and not be tired when he gets there," said Alexander H. Bohr, the inventor.

Several infantry veterans I discussed the rocket with were on the skeptical side.

"They're always thinking up ways to get a dogface into battle faster," said one. "What the dogface himself wants is a way to get him out of battle altogether—and for this, there's no better gadget than a general peace."

"If this rocket thing really makes it easier to get about," said a second, "it'll take it at least two generations to filter up to the front lines. And even then the rear area boys will keep all the latest models for their own conveniences."

"One thing you do have to admit," remarked a third. "It sure is a hell of a handy instrument for going AWOL in a hurry."

But no old infantryman ever believes anyone will ever make his job comfortable. Throughout history he knows the problem of the dogface has always been the same.

Ex-College Student In Drama Career

By BOB THOMAS

He's not so sure his mother, Helen Hayes, approved. But he quit Harvard, anyway.

"I went back last fall," said Jim, who was entering his sophomore year. "But I just couldn't get engrossed with what I was doing. I was just vegetating.

"I dropped out after two months because I thought it was foolish to continue when I wasn't getting much out of it. I've known too many guys who have done that for four years.

It doesn't look too likely. For one thing, he got himself engaged to his school sweetheart, Joyce Bulifant. Jim said it may be "one of those long engagements," but you never can tell.

Then there is the matter of his career, which is doing nicely. He in Hollywood to do a Studio One is in Hollywood to do a Studio One drama with Franchot Tone and Kim Hunter tonight.

He leaves immediately for New York and flies to Europe, where he'll do a bit of touring. In July, he reports to Switzerland to star in Walt Disney's "Third Man on the Mountain." Then in the fall he has a Broadway play he would like to do.

That doesn't sound as if he'll be returning to the ivied halls.

"Some of the most educated people have never been to college," Jim reasoned. He added that his mother never went past high school although she holds 11 honorary degrees.

One of the reasons he may have left Harvard was that the university has no undergraduate drama courses.

He told of visiting the famed Actor's Studio in New York, where actors did a scene, then criticized each other. He felt the actors were unable to communicate with each other. On the other hand, he wasn't so sure they were able to understand the learned critique of the studio major domo, Lee Strasberg.

Robert Driscoll Attempting To Rebuild Acting Career

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I was carried on a satin cushion and then dropped into the garbage can."

That is Robert Driscoll's view of his acting career, which began at 5. Now a sharp, realistic 21, he is attempting to rebuild his career as an adult. He's doing nicely.

Robert is better known as Bobby Driscoll, though he's trying to duck the youngish name. As Bobby, he was a busy actor in such films as "The Window," "So Dear to My Heart," "Song of the South" and 'Treasure Island." He even won an Oscar as an outstanding child star.

But he admitted that his career didnt buy him happiness. He sees now that he had too little discipline and too much adulation.

'Yet I really feared people," he said. "The other kids didn't accept me. They treated me as one apart. I tried desperately to be one of the gang. When they rejected me, I fought back, became belligerent and cocky and was afraid all the time."

The wise counsel of his wife Marjorie and close friends, notably Dean Stockwell, helped conquer his inner fears, he said. Now he is determined to make a success in the profession he fell into by accident.

Driscoll's father took him to a barber whose son acted in films. Impressed by the lad's personality, the barber referred him to the son's agent. A job in "Lost Angel" with Margaret O'Brien resulted.

After a successful career as a child, including eight years with Walt Disney, he found important roles getting scarce. He even took a job as a clothing salesman after he was married, but failed miserably at it.

Now he's determined to succeed as an adult actor. And he's doing well, having appeared on most of the filmed and live dramatic shows. He has his best grown-up role to date in "Party Crashers" for Paramount.

His youngish face allows him to play teen-agers, but he has also been cast older than his age. He reported he had even played an opium smuggler for a half-hour TV drama.

Houstonia 4-H Club Enjoys Skating Party

Owen Fox was the speaker at the May 26 meeting of Houstonia 4-H Club with 19 members and 11 visitors present. The meeting was held in the Murry Wood home.

Fox spoke to the members on how to earn awards and encouraged all to fill out a standard report form. He also talked on the 4-H camp.

The group will meet with Earl Gregory on June 23 at 7:30 p.m. Several demonstrations have been planned.

Blockbusters Defined By Film Makers

The film business definition of the wartime term for an immense explosive: A movie with a tremendous earning capacity.

"Giant" was a blockbuster. So are "Around the World in 80 Days," "The 10 Commandments," "The Bridge on the River Kwai," and "South Pacific."

There is no rule of thumb for classifying blockbusters, except that they do enormous business. But that can be misleading.

A picture like "Raintree County" can do enormous business yet still end up in the red because of its great cost.

On the other hand, a film like "Delicate Delinquent" can do the same or less business and be a blockbuster because it cost a million dollars or less.

Story editors are constantly on the lookout for literary properties that can be big box office winners. One of them told me what he looked for:

"Stories with big emotions. Stories that can be cast importantly. Stories that have fascinating backgrounds that can fill the big screen with spectacle."

There is no common denominator, of course. I looked over Variety's list of all-time champs for some secret of success. I found a preponderance of war films ("Gone With the Wind," "From Here to Eternity," "This is the Army," "Battle Cry," "Caine Mutiny," "Mister Roberts.")

Also biblical epics — "10 Commandments," "The Robe," "Samson and Delilah," "Quo Vadis," "David and Bathsheba." There is a sprinkling of musicals "White Christmas," Guys and Dolls," "The King and I," "Pal Joey."

The solution for the film industry is simple — just make films about biblical wars, directed by Cecil B. DeMille and starring Bing Crosby.

Miss O'Briant Guest Of Homemakers Club

The Dresden Homemakers Club met May 27 at the home of Mrs. L. J. May with Mrs. May and Mrs. L. F. Raabe as hostesses. Eighteen members, six visitors and five children were present.

Following a noon luncheon Mrs. C. A. DeHaven opened the meeting. Devotional was led by Mrs. Ida Fredrich. Mrs. D. E. Edwards reported to the club on the donation of a piano for the Community Hall. A report of the Show-Off-Show was also given.

Mrs. A. B. Cook, Mrs. Oscar Kemp and Mrs. F. Kendrick were selected to nominate the candidates for club officers of 1959. The club also voted to serve lunch to the judges at the 4-H Achievement Day in July.

Miss Opal O'Briant, county agent, was guest speaker. She gave an interesting tal kon "Legal Matters."

State Joins Nation-wide Traffic Fight

Slow down and live is the safety theme for Missouri motorists to drive by as the state joins the rest of the nation in the annual program to combat the summertime traffic casualty toll.

Attracted by the lure of warm weather, new places to see and new things to do the traffic volume reaches its highest peak during June, JuJly and August. Vacation minded travelers swarm the highways and an increased rural traffic death toll reflects the trend.

"Speed and summer seem to be a deadly combination," the Highway Patrol Superintendent said. "If we eliminate the headlong rush to get somewhere before anyone else and the 'in a hurry attitude' of some drivers even on the shortest trip we strike at the largest single factor in traffic accidents and traffic deaths."

Col. Hugh Waggoner said that the lesson learned in May by watching the pendulum of death swing upward so quickly as days became warmer was warning enough of what to expect this summer unless drivers do, "slow down and live."

The severity of a traffic accident is determined by the speed of either one or all of the vehicles involved. The increased traffic death toll in May in Missouri can be attributed to single accidents killing as many as six people at once in only 8 of the accidents occurring this month in the state, 27 people were killed. These accidents were caused by drivers traveling at excessive speeds and crashing into other vehicles or leaving the road out of control.

"We would like to assure drivers a safe and happy journey on every trip," Col. Waggoner said, "but we can't do this until the individual driver accepts the slow must kill speed before speed kills down and live program as a personal, moral responsibility. We us."

Between 5,000 and 7,000 different items are stocked by modern supermarkets.

Fresh Greens Well Adapted For Freezing

By Jo Flory
MU Extension Nutritionist

Instead of "wearing of the green" it will soon be time to be thinking of "freezing of the green." Fresh greens can be frozen and if properly frozen will have almost the same flavor, quality and food value as fresh greens. Selection of high quality greens is important because freezing will not improve their quality. Greens should be at the best eating stage when they are frozen. After the vegetables have been harvested they should be frozen as quickly as possible to help preserve the quality. Whenever you can, work with a small amount of food at a time so that none of it will stand around too long.

In washing the greens, use water that has a little warmth to it. Then the soil will come loose a little easier. However, do not have it hot enough to wilt the greens. Lift the greens from the water. The large ribs should be removed. They have no food value and may give a coarse texture to the cooked greens.

When any vegetable is frozen it should be blanched. This is done to stop the ripening process so the vegetable will be in the same eating stage as it was when you put in freezer storage. The time for blanching will vary with the vegetable. Rather than remembering times for different vegetables we suggest you refer to a reliable table. After blanching the vegetable cool it quickly and thoroughly. Ice water should be used and the vegetable stirred in the ice water, particularly a vegetable which will pack or mat as greens will do. When the vegetable is thoroughly cool it is ready to be packaged. The package is very important and needs to be a material which will keep moisture in the food. The low temperature of the freezer has a distinct drying affect, so if you use a packaging material which is not specifically made for freezing, the vegetable is apt to become dry and will not be the high quality food that you put into the freezer.

Package the vegetables leaving some head space so that as the vegetable freezes it will have room for expansion without breaking the seal. After the vegetable has been packaged the package should be labeled. For labeling use a wax pencil, a soft lead pencil or crayon. Ink is not satisfactory as it will run.

The packaged vegetables should be frozen as quickly as possible. If it is to be taken to a locker in town keep it at as cold a temperature as you can without freezing it while you are getting other packages ready. If you are going to put it in your own food freezer you may want to wait till you have several packages ready before opening the box. In that case also keep your package as cold as possible without freezing.

In review, the important things to remember in freezing greens are: select greens that are in the best eating stage; wash thoroughly and remove tough stems; blanch for the recommended time; cool quickly; package in a good freezer container that will keep the moisture in the food; label and freeze as soon as possible. Frozen foods begin to lose quality as soon as they are put in the freezer. The longer they are kept the poorer they will be. So don't leave them over too long a period of time or you may be disappointed when they are served.

Further directions for freezing greens can be obtained by getting the Bulletin "freezing Fruits and vegetables" from your county home agent, or by writing to the mailing room at Mumford Hall, Columbia.

Owen Fox Speaker At Tanglenook 4-H Meet

The May meeting of the Tanglenook 4-H Club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Reine with Owen Fox as guest speaker. His subject was on "Opportunity for 4-H Members".

The meeting was opened by the president, Delta Reine, with Steven Long leading in the pledge to the flag and the 4-H pledge. Roll call was answered by naming a wild flower. Plans were made to assist with the IFYE auction, the roadside cleanup campaign and to observe Rural Life Sunday.

Games were led by Steven Long ments followed.

The club will meet with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gunn for their June meeting.

District Legion Meet at Marshall

Delegates from Pettis, Lafayette, Saline, Howard, Benton and Hickory counties will hold the next seventh district meeting of the Missouri department of American Legion posts and auxiliary units at the Marshall Legion post home beginning at 1:30 p.m. Sunday afternoon.

Frank B. Piper, Sedalia, district commander, will preside.

Two junior vice-commanders will be elected and a slate of delegates to both the department and national Legion conventions will be selected.

William J. Kenney, St. Joseph, past department commander and candidate for national executive committeeman, will be the principal speaker.

Many other candidates, including James B. Kerrigan, Kansas City, past department commander for whom support is developing for the position of national vice-commander, have also been invited.

To Make Next Tarzan Film In Cinemascope

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Me Tarzan, you Jane."

Almost 40 years ago those words launched one of Hollywood's classic love affairs. And if you don't think treetop living is here to stay, check Mr. Ape Man's next epic: it's going to be in Cinemascope.

It will be No. 32, coming in the 40th anniversary year of the series, and the first chance for Tarzan to swing branch to branch around a wide screen.

Since 1918, the experts say, the film versions of Edgar Rice Burroughs' famous characters have grossed more than half a billion dollars.

Bootlegged Hollywood Tarzan films are favorites with the Soviets. And just as Westerns are popular in the American West, Hollywood's jungle films rate high with African movie-goers.

In all there have been 11 Tarzans, 19 Janes and numerous Boys (their son). Like Little Orphan Annie, the characters never age.

Record - holders as a Tarzan team were Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan — six films from 1932 to 1942. Weissmuller did half a dozen more episodes with three other Janes — Nancy Kelly, Frances Gifford and Brenda Joyce.

The present ape man is Gordon Scott. Eve Brent is Mrs. Tarzan in Sol Lesser Productions' next film, the wide-screen job. The title suggests it'll be a close thing—it's "Tarzan's Fight for Life."

TO GIRLS STATE—Three Sedalia girls will attend Missouri Girls State which will be held on the campus of William Woods College, Fulton, June 23 to June 30th.

They are, left to right: Judy Jiedel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Jiedel, 1408 South Barrett, a junior at Smith-Cotton High School, who is sponsored by Unit No. 16, American Legion Auxiliary; Patty Schreiner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Schreiner, West Highway 50, junior at Smith-Cotton High School, sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club; and Donna Marie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis L. Smith, junior at Smith-Cotton High School, sponsored by Unit No. 98, American Legion Auxiliary.

Pfc. Oldham Is Honored With Winner

Mr. and Mrs. Chester L. McNeal, Syracuse, entertained recently with a contributive dinner honoring Mrs. McNeal's brother, Pfc. William Eddie Oldham, who is home on furlough from Paris, France, where he will again be stationed following his leave. He has been in the service for two years and has re-enlisted for six years. Eddie has made his home with the McNeals since 1948.

Those present for the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Jake Ivy and Debbie, Liberty, Mr. and Mrs. Charley McNeal, Mr. and Mrs. John W. McNeal and family, Kansas City, Miss Lois Kendrie, Prairie Home, Billy Pat McNeal, Wayne, Mike and Susan Myers, St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Combs and family, Versailles, Mr. and Mrs. Pete McNeal, James McNeal, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sisemore and family, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McNeal and daughter, Mrs. Della Wiser and family, Sedalia.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Peoples and family, Jefferson City, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Fulks and daughter, Latham, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred McNeal, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Fulks and daughter, Latham, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred McNeal, Mr. and Mrs. George Peoples and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Rugen Jr. and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hubbard and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Combs and family and Raymond and Rolla Salmons.

Beaman Arator 4-H Club Plans Hayride

Twenty-six members were present at the May 23 meeting of the Beaman Arator 4-H Club meeting. Wayne Neiberger and Judith Norton were guests.

The group planned a hayride which will be held on June 14 after which they practiced songs they were to sing on 4-H Sunday, May 25.

Quisenberry 4-H Meets

The Quisenberry Hustlers 4-H met May 21 at the Quisenberry School, with 46 present. Owen Fox was the guest speaker.

Singing was led by Karen Rissler and a new song was taught by Owen Fox. Mrs. Cloyce Wilson presented the club with a check for $5 for entry in the County Dramatics Festival. Reports were given by Barbara Gerken, Rosalee Mergen, Karen Rissler, Sara Oswald, Richard Chappell and Glenda Rhoads, who gave the council report. The club voted to have a local achievemnt day on Aug. 1.

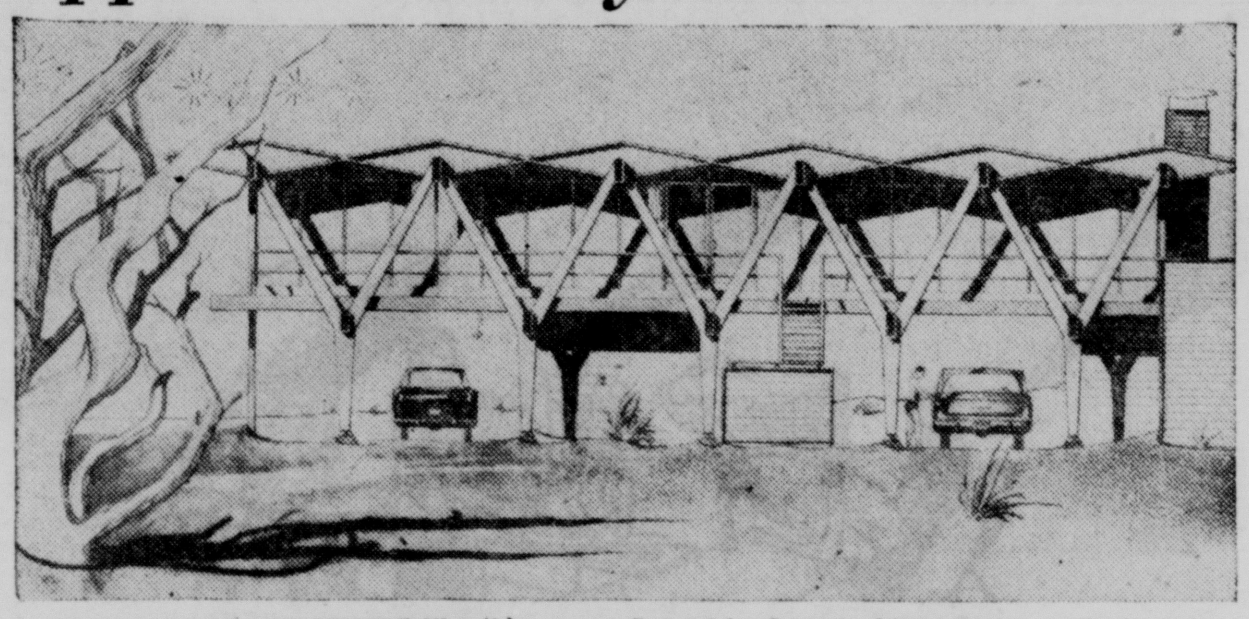
Dramatically Designed Houses Appear In Many Resort Areas



DRAMATIC BEACH HOMES like this one on Long Island by Architect Slater & Chait result from new technique of old process. Use of molded structural members offers decorative and utilitarian rooflines. Beam principle, which also becomes decorative part of interior, is traced to early American trestle bridges and New England mills.

Dramatically striking homes, designed especially for outdoor living, will appear this summer in beach and resort areas.

New techniques in processing and design of wooden beams and girders make possible construction of a new type of house which blends indoor and outdoor functions both visually and functionally.

By using molded structural members — strips of wood glued together under enormous pressure — contemporary homes have been created with flowing roof lines. These add strength and beauty to a structure with circular, T, and Y-shaped ceilings as well as parabolic and tree-shaped roofs.

A variation of the open beam and plank method used in building early American trestle bridges and New England mills, this process was revived for World War II shipbuilding. Its relative simplicity was and is, time-saving.

A beach house in East Hampton, L. I., has a roof line indicative of its beach site. Hurricane - resistant, this type of construction is ideal for any area subject to high winds and shifting sands.

Huge glass windows along the sides enclose a kitchen, bath, bedroom and living room. A terrace along the 29 x 19-foot living room extends this part of the house to encompass a much larger area for parties, buffets and other social activities. Terraces along the other three sides similarly lengthen the rooms adjoining them. One of these is a sheltered terrace—open to the prevailing summer winds but with a minimum of glass to reduce heat loss and infiltration during the winter.

In addition to broadening the functional possibilities within the house, these terraces create shaded areas beneath the house at all times.

The house itself is supported by Y-shaped columns which raise the structure above ground level as protection against wind and waves during the flood season. In addition it is built on bracing sunk into the sand. This safety construction also creates sheltered areas for parking, recreation and outdoor living.

To facilitate access to the living areas, and to avoid the necessity of transporting heavy loads up and down the stairs, Architect Slater & Chait also designed dumb-waiter-type elevators in the East Hampton house. An open family-type kitchen, with a 14 x 10-foot eating area, serves as a center of preparation for meals indoors, on the terrace, or on the beach. And because of its unique design, this $20,000 to $25,000 home can be easily expanded to suit the needs of a growing family.

Include Safety Thinking In All Vacation Plans

Families planning to travel by car this summer are wise to include advance safety thinking in their plans. For also on the road will be 66 million other vacationers. Or about 2½ million pleasure-bent cars, or those whose drivers are so inspired.

To end a vacation alive, although perhaps travel - weary, drivers should stop early each day. More accidents happen between 4 and 8 p.m. than at any other time.

Avoid weekend travel, if possible, since 40 per cent of the auto deaths occur on weekends. The most dangerous day is Saturday.

On long trips, schedule sleep-stops in advance to avoid dangerous night driving.

And though a little less than 1 per cent of all accidents are directly traceable to faulty tires, they're an important safety factor. Driving on so-called "baldies" is taking your life in your hands, safety experts for American Brake Shoe warn. Incidentally, most blowouts are caused by heat build-up from continual high-speed driving, not from punctures. So don't think that good rubber makes it O.K. to speed.

Barbecue Is Moving Into Back Yard

All around the country, folks are moving outdoors with cook stoves, toasters, charcoal and portable food in hand.

Once a picnic meant a long trek to a camp site. Now the family barbecue moves to back yard, ter-

No longer is it necessary to build a deluxe brick chimney under the apple tree. Look around at compact and economical new stoves developed to keep pace with the barbecue trend. They range from enclosed grills for smoker cooking and expensive electrically run units to a two-handed circular metal "toaster" that rests just above the glowing charcoal and flips food so that both sides are done to taste.

Used in simplified recipes for the barbecue crowd are many wines. The wine adds both flavor and bouquet, while the actual alcohol evaporates immediately as heat is applied. The following recipe was developed by a home economist of Taylor wine especially for cooking broilers on a portable grill. Tender and appetizing, the chicken sends forth that come hither fragrance while cooking.

Broilers in Marinade

Combine ½ cup salad oil, ½ cup New York State Rhine wine, ¼ cup lemon or lime juice, ½ teaspoon dried rosemary, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, ½ cup liquid honey, ½ teaspoon Tabasco and one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Beat with rotary beater until well blended.

Pour over two quartered broilers and chill several hours, turning chicken occasionally. Warm remaining marinade and use.

Safeguard Home From Burglars During Vacation

Going on vacation? Then there are a few things you should do first to safeguard your home from vandals and burglars.

It is important to avoid tipoffs to these wary individuals so stop milk, newspaper and other deliveries. Ask a neighbor to keep advertising circulars off the porch. And don't lower your window shades. If you plan to be away three weeks or more, arrange to have your lawn mowed. Prowlers watch for such tipoffs.

Notify the post office to hold mail deliveries, or have mail sent to a neighbor. Lock windows and doors — and don't forget basement windows and the coal chute, if you have one.

Shut off gas and water at main valves. Unless the refrigerator or food freezer is to be left on, shut off the electricity at the master switch. If current must be left on, disconnect lamps and appliances at wall outlets. These precautions narrow chances of a fire breaking out while you are away.

Tell police how long you'll be gone and where they can reach you in an emergency.

From the National Safety Council comes this advice for traveling safety. Have your car serviced thoroughly. Pay close attention to such features as lights, brakes, tires, steering and windshield wipers.

Mrs. Ray Hostess To Extension Club

The Homebuilders Extension Club of Windsor met recently at the home of Mrs. George Ray with six members and one visitor, Mrs. John Chipman, present.

In the absence of the president and vice-president, Mrs. Ray presided over the business session which opened with a song, "Smile." The devotional was given by Mrs. Jesse Johns followed by a poem, "Today Is the Day." Roll call was answered with, "My Favorite Flower." Mrs. Phillip Acker and Mrs. Ray gave a report of the meeting and tea in Clinton which they had attended. A white elephant sale was held. A vegetable game was played.

Family Pool In Back Yard Saving Money

More weeds are growing in the path to the old swimmin' hole and less grass in the backyard. Such news could make a young fellow happy or sad.

Fortunately, youngsters are ecstatic about the whole state of affairs. Why? Because each year more families buy or build a swimming pool for the yard.

In 1948, a home pool was a luxury identified with movie stars or the local business magnate and there were only 2,000 installed pools. By the end of 1957 there were 150,000. And families in the $7,500 to $12,000 income range will be the biggest number of pool owners in the future, according to swimming pool drummers.

A tour of the country reveals families in $10,000-$12,000 homes with pools. One family paid for its swimming pool in part with groceries from a neighborhood store it operated.

And a $6,000-a-year truck driver in the east bought a package swimming pool — price range $4,000 to $6,000 with all accessories like diving board and cleaning equipment.

His reasoning: in time it will pay for itself through savings on all-family vacations. The family stays home now, to swim.

One factor in the increase in home units is a more liberal view by bankers toward loans for swimming pools. An official with Esther William Swimming Pools estimates that perhaps 60 per cent of all home pools sold in 1957 had financial backing.

Many families build their pools rather than buy ready-to-install units. For these, pool designers offer some tips as a springboard to the project.

For easiest swimming and lowest cost per square foot, the rectaugular pool usually is the wisest choice. Minimum practical width for a pool is 15 feet. If plans include a springboard and wading area, the pool should be not less than 35 feet long.

Also consider the size in relation to how many will use it. Allow 36 square feet of water for each swimmer and 100 square feet for each diver. A 20x40 pool of average depth, with diving board in use, is large enough for fourteen people to use simultaneously.

Don't forget to allow space around the pool for a walk, three feet wide. At the springboard or deep end, the walk should extend back about nine feet. For edging the pool and for a walk around it, smaller size tiles such as mosaics are good. They are decorative and also slip-proof. If there is room, a sun deck or terrace adds to pool activities as a spot for sun bathing and dining.

Home Decorator Can Design Artistic Floor

With a piece of graph paper and some colored pencils, even an amateur home decorator can design interesting and dramatic floors of resilient tile. She can create geometric patterns or, for a really modern home, use a novel abstract pattern. Or she can have a splash of startling color, a harlequinade of black and white or a two-tone composition.

Travel Light On Air Trip For Comfort

By ALICIA HART

NEA Beauty Editor

In these days of air travel most of us have occasion to make at least one planetrip a year. To look as attractive on leaving the plane as you do on boarding takes a bit of doing.

To begin with, keep your hair style simple so that hours of sitting, with your head resting against a chair back, will not flatten it hopelessly. Make - up should be light and should be applied over a liquid foundation to make it more lasting.

If you're making a night trip, remove your make-up before you go to sleep and put on fresh make-up in the morning. Cream is a girl's best friend here since the rest rooms may have a line-up waiting. Carry plenty of cleansing tissues and the biggest handbag you can tote so that you have all the necessary cosmetics at hand, not in your suitcase.

Wear a wool knit dress if you want to emerge unwrinkled. But if you wear a suit or silk dress, change to slacks once you've boarded the plane. You'll look and feel better. Carry soft, crushable slippers with you so that you can shed your shoes once you're in your seat.

You needn't have gray hair these days in order to switch hair coloring. Lots of girls take to a new hair color every few months, just as they change lipstick shades and are not reticent about it.

Notions about hair coloring have changed rapidly in the last 10 years, just as many ideas in beauty have. A girl is no longer considered a hussy if she's a blonde one month, a brunette the next and a redhead the third.

But, though hair is amazingly resilient and hair coloring methods are exceptionally good these days, don't neglect your homework with a brush. Be sure that you have oil treatments if you need them.

In short, don't neglect the health of your hair while you're protecting its beauty.

For most women on a diet, the big stumbling block comes when they are guests at dinner in a friend's home or when they dine in a restaurant. But there are ways to avoid calories on both occasions.

Don't announce that you're dieting. No one wants to hear about it. But do pass up gravies, mashed potatoes, rolls or creamed vegetables. It may be wasteful but at least attention-getting way to pass them up is to put them on your plate and leave them.

Accept dessert but don't touch it. Trim the fat from your meat and keep the cream out of your coffee. After you've done it a few times, you'll find it comes easy.

Warm Weather Ticks A Serious Problem

A problem of warm weather is ticks. They attach themselves to a dog and are carried into the home.

They feed on the dog and after about six days drop off to hide eggs by the thousands in woodwork, draperies, behind pictures or mirrors and under rugs.

Once they take hold in a home, it is difficult to get rid of them. So best keep them off a dog with insecticides obtained in aerosol, powder or liquid form.

Ticks are hard to kill. A good insecticide, according to Sergeant's dog care center in Virginia, will make the tick inactive soon after applied but may take up to 24 hours to kill. Wait 24 to 48 hours after treating a dog until ticks die and the barbs they dig into a dog's skin relax their hold. Then comb them out.

Rainiest Spot

Water Skiing Fun, Simple to Learn

No Special Ability Needed Just Skis and One Lesson

Determining the proper ski length depends upon the weight of the skier. Youth skis may be as short as 4 feet 6 inches, with adult skis ranging in length from 5 feet 6 inches to 6 feet 3 inches, accommodating skiers up to 225 pounds.

The first lesson for the beginningskier is on the beach. The skier sits on the backs of the skis and, grasping the tow bar with arms extended, is pulled up to a standing position, keeping the knees flexed and the body straight and braced against the pull.
The tow line can be fastened to the boat by a simple bridle or by one of the commercial ski tow bars now on the market. The tow line, which is usually ⅜ inch nylon or manila, should be of the standard 75-foot length.

Few sports can boast the many pleasures to be found in water skiing—the simple technique of riding atop the water on a pair of wooden or plastic slats.

Anyone who has thrilled to the excitement of speed, to the exciting combination of sun, fun and water, is a potential water skier. Once you get up on the skis and experience the thrill of riding over the waves in the wake of a fast-moving boat, the sport will grow on you rapidly, and it gets a firmer hold every time you learn a new maneuver.

The sport is no longer reserved for those who own or can borrow a powerful speed boat fast enough to get the skier out of the water and pull him at speeds necessary to maneuver properly. The modern outboard motor has wiped out the financial barrier that formerly stood between water-skiing and the average American family.

No special athletic ability is necessary to learn to water ski—tots from five or six years of age to those in their 60s can enjoy the sport. A simple 20-minute lesson will teach the fundamentals of water skiing to almost anyone so that he will be able to glide along behind a boat at 20 to 25 miles per hour.

The basic equipment for water skiing consists of a medium sized boating rig with an outboard motor of 18 horsepower or more, a pair of water skis, a tow rope and a life preserver. The boat should have a minimum of 60-inch beam at the stern.

The selection of skis depends upon the weight of the skier. Those weighing between 50 and 120 pounds should choose skis 5 feet 6 inches long; between 120-160 pounds, 5 feet 9 inch skis; and 160-225 pounds, 6 feet 3 inch skis.

The habits and techniques you develop on your first water ski lesson will be those you retain the longest—so let's get started properly. Oddly enough, the best place to start your first ski lesson is on the beach.

Place your skis on the beach about 6 to 9 inches apart. Slip into the rubber ski bindings, pull up the heel piece and then sit on the back ends of the skis with your water and sit on the backs of them like you did on the beach. Then let the pull of the motor raise you to the standing position, just as you did on the beach. It's a good idea to cradle your knees between your arms to add steadiness to your body when being pulled out of the water.

Do not try to pull yourself up. Just keep your arms straight and let the boat pull you. Then simply remember to keep your knees slightly flexed and your body straight and you'll be proudly skiing along behind the boat.

The layout of pictures here shows the simple step-by-step method of learning to ski on water, a sport that will bring you continual thrills for many a boating season.

On the first water start, the skier repeats the lessons learned on the beach. With the ski tips above the top of the water, grasp the tow rope with arms extended straight out, keep the body straight, knees flexed and let the boat pull you out of the water.

Almost on top of the water as the boat gains speed, the skier keeps the skis together, the arms extended and the knees flexed. The weight should be balanced over the skis against the pull of the tow rope, but too much of a backward lean will result in sitting down and spoiling the start.

Diamond Hunt Lures Tourist To Arkansas

"Diamond mine for lease $5," a newspaper advertisement here read.

You won't get rich quickly if you lease the "mine." What you'll have is one square foot of greenish black earth near Murfreesboro—in hilly southwest Arkansas—plus the privilege of searching several nearby acres for diamonds.

Diamond hunting on the neighboring field has been active for years. There you can pay a visitor's fee and scratch around all day for the precious stones.

The "$5 lease" ad is merely a new twist in the scramble to lure tourists, the only group doing any diamond digging these days.

It was not always so. The diamond emblem on the Arkansas state flag is a mute reminder of the unknown wealth and the shattered dreams the gems once brought.

Farmer John W. Huddleston started it all in 1906. He noticed a shiny stone on his farm, picked it up and later learned he had found a diamond in its original formation.

Huddleston lost no time in selling his land to a group of Little Rock men for $36,000.

Commercial firms waded into the virgin 72-acre field with varying degrees of success. Estimates of the number of diamonds produced range from 5,000 to 50,000—there are no accurate records.

One night in 1919 two diamond plants on adjoining tracts went up in flames under mysterious circumstances. That just about ended diamond mining on a large scale.

The last full year of digging in 1948-49 yielded only 246 carats of industrial diamonds worth a total of $985.

Tourists, digging against the backdrop of a few decrepit sheds in the area, have had better luck.

The last publicized find was by a Dallas housewife who in 1956 chanced on a 15½-carat rough diamond appraised as high as $15,000. The governor christened it the Star of Arkansas.

The finder, Mrs. Arthur Lee Parker, paid $1.50 for the prospecting privilege. Mrs. Parker was way ahead of most tourists at the start—she is an amateur geologist.

The largest diamond ever found in the United States is the 30-carat Uncle Sam unerthed in 1924 near Murfreesboro.

For the tourist it's finders-keepers, almost. On larger stones the finder pays a royalty of 25 per cent of the value above five carats to the owners of the tract, plus a few per cent additional as state severance tax.

But the tourist heyday may end soon. State geologists say several ventures aimed at mining the field commercially again have nearly materialized. The only drawback seems to be in consolidating ownership of the diamond field.

WOHELO is the watchword of the Camp Fire Girls. It is made of the first two letters of "work," "health" and "love."

Miles of New Roads Greet Summer Auto Vacationers

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON — Eighty million Americans will take auto vacations this summer and attempt to beat the recession with maximum use of the nation's free tourist attractions and sightseeing wonders.

And the vacation hotel and motel owners, the operations of resorts and other vacation-for-pay enterprises are braced for price-haggling such as they haven't encountered from tourists in many years.

Nevertheless, auto vacationers will spend about 12 billion dollars this summer. This is about as much as they spent the year before, a survey by the American take inexpensive driving vacations Automobile Association reveals.

Many persons are deciding to instead of their usual stay at expensive resorts. Many people who customarily take long, cross country trips this year will take shorter trips in the interest of economy. And the camping boom which has been developing the past several years is expected to reach a new high this summer.

Two of the big reasons for general optimism by the AAA experts and other travel authorities are the record savings which Americans have in the bank, and the new roads which have opened to tourists during the past 12 months.

Official state and federal statistics on the completions of new highways sometimes lags more than a year in being reported to the public because of red tape. But a privately published survey, The Parade Magazine Turnpike Guidebook, reports:

"Since last year, more than 500 miles of turnpike and 1,250 miles of expressways have opened. This now gives the U. S. more than 3,000 miles of turnpikes and more than 7,500 miles of free expressways."

Connecticut Turnpike: 129 miles from Stamford, Conn., to South Killingly, Conn., near the Rhode Island border. It is an important feeder from New York to New England.

Will Rogers Turnpike: 88 miles from the Turner Turnpike to U. S. 66 at Joplin, Mo. With the Turner, it helps sidestep congestion on Route 66, a main East-West highway.

Dallas-Fort Worth Turnpike: 30 miles, downtown to downtown.

Tourists heading for Northern Michigan will encounter for the first time the already famous Mackinac Straits Bridge connecting Mackinaw City with St. Ignace across the straits. It's a suspension bridge with a center span of 3,800 feet — second longest center span in the world — and a total length of 8,614 feet.

Movie Film Keeps Fresh Record of Vacation Time

PEOPLE AND SCENERY of favorite vacation spot go together and make a livelier record to show friends and relatives. Choose background carefully and try for continuity. Shooting is simpler with an electric eye for accurate exposure despite varied lighting.

Reliving a fun-filled vacation makes it a memorable, and often hilarious, event. A movie record keeps sights fresh and recalls events of a busy playtime to share with family and friends.

Many of the 45 million persons who take two-week, or more, vacations will have cameras handy to shoot scenes for their own travel films. Suggestions from experts such as those at Bell & Howell add extra pleasure to being an amateur film producer.

They advise a traveling photographer to:

Check equipment—before leaving home, inspect the camera and make sure you have plenty of film and lens tissue, extra lenses and tripod, a carrying case for accessories and a haze filter.

Tell a story—put continuity into pictures. One method is a "running gag"—where a child does the same humorous thing several times, spotted throughout the finished film.

Get action shots—get people to do things. In scenic shots, show people of cars entering or leaving the scene.

Avoid too short scenes—a series of film sequences that are too short seem to jump on the screen. A good guide to time a scene is to count slowly by thousands to seven thousand. And don't pan wildly and rapidly across a landscape.

Camera care — handle camera with care. Keep lens clean, and if it becomes dirty, clean with special tissue and fluid. Keep the camera in a case when not in use. Don't store it in the glove compartment.

Patio Paint Works Well In Concrete

Hankering for a patio that will make friends gape, add color to outdoor living and generally be the talk of the neighborhood?

A long planter is arranged near one side and a smaller planter forms a corner. Illumination is by stick in the ground lamps.

For such a patio lay out the dimensions and dig 18 inches deep for footings around the edges. These should be eight inches wide. Make the main part 12 inches deep —with a six-inch gravel base, four inches of concrete slab and 1½ inches on top with the color.

Place forms of 1x2 lumber for the footings and planters. The six-inch gravel base is in the main part of the patio, not in the planters and not in the footings. Tamp this down until it's compact. Now pour the footings. This family used a dry, pre-mixed concrete since step-by-step construction called for relatively small amounts of concrete at any one time. After filling forms and leveling, let concrete cure for a week or so by covering with burlap and wetting the burlap.

Now, lay a 4-inch size drainage tile in a ditch under the planters and under part of the patio. Cover the tile with copper wire mesh to keep out dirt.

To keep the main part from cracking, lay one-half inch reinforcing rods about 10 inches apart on the gravel base. Mix and pour the lower two inches of the four-inch slab. Tamp down level. Then lay wire reinforcement mesh on top. Mix and pour the upper half (two inches) of the slab.

Within one to seven days lay the topping which is the color and final design.

For a pattern, lay out 1½-inch wide or random width redwood strips. Nail these together, or tongue and groove them. Just make sure they stay in place. Brush a slush coat — plenty of water and a sand mix—on top of the slab. This gives a chemical bond between the topping and the base slab.

Have the color mixture ready to go as soon as the slush coat is on. This is made of two parts white sand, one part white cement plus the coloring material, a standard mineral oxide pigment. Pour this into the redwood forms and level.

For weathering, brush on a mixture of mineral oxide pigment, titanium dioxide and a Fiberglas material widely used on boats and plastic automobile bodies. Use one part titanium dioxide to three parts of the resin patching material. Add the coloring pigment as desired.

Caruso Runs Close With Johnny Mathis

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Guess who's running a close second to rock 'n' roll singer Johnny Mathis in a vote to determine whose records will be played for four hours over radio station KGO San Francisco, on June 14?

Enrico Caruso!

There's a reason: Stanford students decided to prove there's a cultural streak in the young generation. So they mailed 2,000 cards voting for Caruso.

Big Monday Vacation Hangover Time Here

The big season of Monday vacation hangovers is here. For a week or two, men who never lift more than a pencil at the office find new muscles from "little jobs" around the house. And Mom and the youngsters collapse after a fill-every-minute routine of the vacationer bent on getting his money's worth.

And then there are the wise ones who just sit out days off in the back yard, watching industrious neighbors and seeing that the steaks are turned at the right moment.

Usually, as the migratory season reaches its peak, families take off en masse for fun spots. A family vacation en masse means three persons in the family car, generally, who keep each other company during a 1,735-mile ride.

Those with incomes of $6,000 or under are most likely to get behind the wheel for a junket. Following the auto as a means of transportation, folks travel for pleasure by train, plane, bus and ship, in that order. Occasionally a hardy soul will walk cross-country just to stretch his legs or celebrate a birthday.

Persons with fun on the mind spread vacation time over all the seasons more than formerly. However, summer travel is still tops with more than 90 per cent taken then. The crisp, colorful autumn is runnerup as a favored relaxing time.

Yet, in this land of increasing leisure there are still persons who have never had a vacation. Perhaps they are ardent week-end relaxers.

Even the TV-bound cut loose for a trip outside the viewing room. An automobile club manager believes TV, instead of keeping people home in summer, increases summer travel. He feels they save money while watching it at home and get ideas on where to go at the same time. Most, incidentally, stay in this country.

As one traveler said, "I want to see this country first so I can appreciate what I see in others."

Our border neighbors, Canada and Mexico, also rate as favorite spots to visit. Increasingly popular are the islands of the Caribbean, especially to those living along the eastern seaboard.

Leisurely cruises with stops at the picturesque isles fit well into longer vacation schedules of an established businessman or retired couple. Younger men and women prefer quick flights, it seems. A travel agent who specializes in cruises points out that the younger set enjoys cruises but usually has neither the time nor the money to take them.

Those discovering areas outside the home state most likely will travel to Florida, then California, New York, Michigan, Colorado and Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and New Jersey in that order.

Luxurious hotels and motels beckon the weary to stop and enjoy their plush, entertaining facilities. And many millions do.

However, the outdoorsman appears more each year as Americans rough it in the country's public parks. In 1940 the National Park Service counted 25 million visitors. They increased to 50 million by 1955. To meet an estimated 80 million visitors by 1966, the park system is developing camp sites, park facilities and roads to make their stay more pleasant and safe. A renewed interest in camping in public parks and forests is due in part to growing travel costs.

Completion of good toll roads and expressways that lead to scenic areas also encourages more long distance travel.

Wherever they travel, about 7 million persons will be pulling their boats behind them, so to speak. For the weekend vacationer a boat answers a call of the sea that until recently was wishful thinking for the landbound.

The fun fleet is expanding and tripled in size in the last decade. In 1957 boats, motors, fuel, accessories and other items cost the pleasure sailors 1.9 billion dollars. And the end isn't in sight yet.

Not everyone is rushing off to a lake or the seashore to launch his boat, water ski or do an Australian crawl. Many are learning it is fun to stay at home. A well-equipped back yard, patio or porch that extends a home's living area is the result, along with mouth-watering cooking odors that float from back yard to back yard.

Do-it-yourself he-men erect permanent outdoor fireplaces or roll out the portable braziers for entertaining. Summer eating is just one outdoor picnic when weather permits.

Easy-to-install outdoor lighting lengthens night hours while installation of nearly 90,000 home swimming pools has the family splashing together.

Thus, even with long trips planned for regular vacations, folks live in their own back yards and have a bangup time doing it.

Family Car Solves Itchy Pet Problem

Traveling with a dog is becoming a pet subject these days. Often the best solution of what to do with a dog when the family plans a vacation is to take him along.

It is easier now that more resorts, motels and hotels accept well-behaved dogs as guests. But avoid disputes by checking in advance the places where you are planning to stop. It also is wise to check requirements of airlines, trains and express companies.

FAMILY pet goes along on trip but must be crated. Some airlines rent crates.

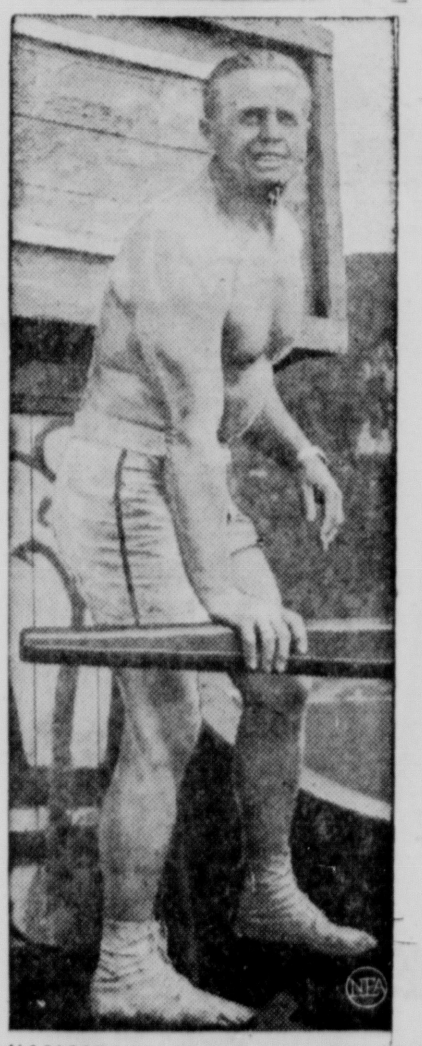
Of course the largest amount of traveling by dogs will be in the family car. Here the family sees to his health, cleanliness and behavior.

Experts at the Sergeant's Dog Care Center in Virginia point out there will be less trouble if a dog is trained to stay in a bed on the car floor. Dogs who hang out car windows may look cute, but they risk injury to their eyes with wind and dust.

And then there are the itchy problems—fleas, ticks and other pests. They, too, have a round-trip ticket unless watched. Carrying an all-purpose insecticide will keep a dog and the car free of pests. There is a flea and tick spray particularly suited for this. Also, a good waterless cleaner for dogs will be useful to pack. With a dog traveling in close quarters with the family, it is important that he be kept clean. An instant foam lather for dogs comes in an aerosol pressure can. This way the dog doesn't get wet and the family doesn't have to delay the trip until he is dry.

Families planning to enter another state, Canada or Mexico should check on inoculations against distemper and rabies and carry a health certificate showing a dog has been inoculated.

And then there is nothing sadder than a family who has lost a pet while traveling. To avoid this as much as possible, attach a tag to his collar with the name and address of a friend to contact if the dog is found. A license will do not good if you are not home.



"ANCIENT MARINER"—When a movie script calls for sea-going scenes, Fred Zendar is very apt to be around. He's Hollywood's expert on things nautical—which is natural as he's been on and below the sea as sailor and deep-sea diver most of his life. Here he's pictured on the war canoe of "The Vikings," filmed in Norway. He thinks the Norwegians hired for the picture "were bum seamen."

Penalty for Over-Packing Bad as Taking Too Little

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

Next to leaving home an essential, the worst thing a traveler can do is take along too much.

"Much of the pleasure in a trip can be lost because of too much luggage," insists Miss Frances Knight — who besides handing out passports for American tourists headed overseas does considerable traveling on her own. She recently went on a five-week trip around the world, carrying one (yes, only ONE) 27-inch suitcase.

Miss Knight — in public life the director of the State Department's Passport Office and in private the wife of magazine publisher Wayne Parrish — appeared on television recently, doing a brief and incomplete demonstration of her packing techniques on "Person to Person." The result was such a flood of letters asking for a complete blueprint of her streamlined luggage and wardrobe that she now has set it down in complete detail.

"I limit myself to one suitcase whether it is for a long or short trip," she says. "For a short trip I take a small overnight case, and for a long trip I use a 27-inch suit case."

Miss Knight is a firm believer in planning and gives herself a week's time to pack for a long trip. In spare moments she puts in such essentials as tooth brush and paste, brush, comb, manicure set, travel alarm clock, small flashlight and a cosmetics kit. Miss Knight has reduced this last item to makeup, an all-purpose face cream, a deodorant, liquid shampoo containers (each containing enough for one shampoo) and a tube of quick-lather soap for use in hard water and other small grooming aids. She substitutes cleansing tissues to handkerchiefs.

Assembling her travel wardrobe is a longer process. She wears one set of lingerie and packs another — both made of drip-dry fabric — and a combination pajama-robe-slipper set of similar material.

"I allow nothing to interfere with a nightly schedule of doing my laundry," she says. "I take a tablespoonful of a detergent soap powder and seal it in a small envelope, allowing one envelope for each washing while on my trip."

Her outside clothes are carefully chosen — dresses, hats and shoes of one basic color with variations and accents from colorful accessories. She finds dark dresses, of course, more practical than light. For summer travel she takes dresses and suits made of easy-to-launder synthetic fabrics.

"It is very simple to pack three or four dresses in a suitcase, providing they are not bouffant and fussy," she has found. "I am partial to drip-dry sweaters and blouses which can be made dressy with scarves or beaded collars. I usually take two sweaters and two blouses. I take two pairs of shoes in addition to the pair in which I travel. I put my stockings, belts and gloves in the shoes to conserve space."

Her hats are chosen partly for their crush-proof qualities, and they compliment the dresses and suit. She uses a light wool stole instead of an evening jacket. She carries a combination raincoat, hat and boots which fold into a plastic bag.

For the maintenance of her wardrobe she has a small travel iron which is convertible for use in foreign electric outlets, and a small sewing kit.

Large Handbag

A reversible topcoat and a big travelling handbag complete the wardrobe. The handbag is large enough to hold a small jewelry case, identification papers, tickets, passport, cosmetics, a solid perfume, and such other odds and ends a woman needs often.

"It is not necessary to be overburdened with extras," says Miss Knight, "because there are few places in the world today where you cannot purchase any of the items which may break or be mislaid. The only extra which is advisable would be eyeglasses if you need them."

In the past year, Miss Knight has done much traveling around the Passport Office's field offices throughout the country — much of the time carrying her overnight bag. In the coming months, her job will take her to passport offices in our embassies and consulates, so the 27-inch suitcase will be working overtime.

"Actually," she confesses, "I had to work this packing system out. My husband won't let me take more than one suitcase on a trip."

MASTERFUL PACKER: Mrs. Knight, U. S. Passport Office director, prepares to fill the single suitcase she allows herself on any trip. She says she's partial to drip-dry sweaters and blouses, which can be made dressy with scarves or collars.

Matter of FACT

A national park is created only by an act of Congress, but the president may set aside what is known as a national monument. A monument is usually a smaller area of land than a national park, in which treasures of historical or geological interest are protected from destruction and maintained in a natural state for study and observation.

Cheerfulness Calls for Dab Of Art Brush

The bright new world of summer spotlights dingy remains of winter months or uncared-for-items stored hurriedly as autumn breezes put last summer to bed.

But cheerfulness of the season calls for a dab of fresh paint here, hosing down there and sprouting of colorful flowers.

Martha Blair, director of Pfaff Sewing Institute in New York, suggests whipping up a sun-spot cover. This is done by alternating panels of bright and light blue canvas or denim sun-spotted with circle applique. Umbrella covers are easy to sew, she says, and can be any color combination and appliqued to suit backyard or veranda scheme.

To cover a 10- or 12-spoke umbrella that has a 60-inch diameter, a housewife will need four yards of 36-inch canvas. The new umbrella may be straight-edged, scalloped or fringed.

In sewing merely join canvas wedges on the machine. And you will have an opening in the cover for the pole, Mrs. Blair assures. Now edge umbrella with bias tape or fringe and reattach ornamental caps on the inside, at the end of each seam.

Decorating the new cover is a time for fantasy. Cut circular bits of contrasting canvas, denim or felt and applique them to every other umbrella segment using a wide satin stitch. It workss best wide satin stitch. It works best ing machine embroidery across the plain wedges. If you use one color for the cover, sew embroidered grograin ribbon along the cover's seams.

Now you are ready to slip the new cover over the pole. Then place ornamental caps over the ribs, place rings and big metal cap over top of pole and fasten.

NEW SUN SPOTS cover makes a cheery face for an old sun umbrella. To make, measure pie-shaped sections of old cover, draw pattern on paper and cut fabric. Leave half-inch seam allowance for each edge. Applique sun spots with a satin stitch and attach to frame.

Compass Answers Vacation Hazard Of Getting Lost

Getting lost is a nightmare for little children in crowded stores. But think of the amateur outdoorsman stranded in the woods?

A dependable compass is a simple and inexpensive answer to the problem. Garrett Cook, designer for Taylor Instrument Companies, and an ardent outdoorsman, advises amateurs when lost to first place the magnetic compass on a level surface away from any metalic objects and wait for the needle to settle down.

Turn compass slowly until the zero or "N" marking coincides with the tip of the needle.

Now, if you face in the direction in which the needle points you will be facing north. East will be on your right, south behind you and west on your left.

Decide the direction in which you want to travel. Let's say that you want to return to your camp, which is to the northeast. Using your compass—never your "sense of direction"—as a guide, determine which direction is northeast. Remember that a compass is laid out in a full circle of 360 degrees. Thus northeast may be found at approximately 45 degrees, between the markings "N" and "E."

Now, looking toward the northeast, choose an object such as a large tree or a rock formation and start out toward that object. When you reach it, check your compass again to make sure you have not strayed from your course. Then choose another tree, rock formation, or similar landmark and repeat the process until you arrive at your destination.

Bird Watching Becomes Popular Outdoor Sport

Bird-watching is fast becoming a popular American outdoor sport. The agile young, or less limber older folks can all participate in the activities with equal enjoyment.

The thrill of bird - watching comes from being able to identify species, know where they live or how rare they may be.

There are only three necessary pieces of equipment, a good bird book; a reliable, lightweight pair of binoculars or a telescope; and a notebook.

For binoculars, according to Bausch Lomb experts, a 7 x 35 is probably the best size, although the more powerful 7 x 50 is better suited for long distance, or dim-light activity.

Start your bird watching in a small way. If you are planning a trip, read up on the type of birds you will be most likely to see in the area where you are going. Then try to find them. Greater satisfaction from the trip is practically guaranteed.

But the simplest way of all is to study the birds you see around your home. By learning to identify sparrows, bluejays and robins you will soon find our knowledge and interest growing at a rapid rate and a new hobby will have begun.

Long Auto Trips Can Play Havoc With Disposition

From cities and towns all over the country, Americans head for favorite vacation spots, with a large majority making this trip in the family car.

Everybody's excited and happy at the start, but long hours in a car can play havoc with dispositions. Wise travelers — especially those with children — stop often. Such stops will be most effective, the makers of Mum cream deodorant point out, if the family takes a moment to freshen up. A grooming kit in the glove compartment, or on the ledge behind the back seat, will be handy for use during the day.

Possible containers for such a kit —a sturdy cardboard or wooden box, a small wicker hamper, beach bag, toy suit case or old box handbag. Into the kit should go a package of cleansing tissues or paper napkins, a comb and some bobbie pins, a nail file, cold cream or skin freshener, hand lotion, talcum powder, deodorant and some light-bodied cologne.

A dampened towel in a plastic bag washes sticky little paws and faces or there are compressed wash cloths that inflate in water and are discarded after cleanups. Soap travels well in the form of soap leaves or capsules. The leaves come in small folders (similar to those containing tissues for cleaning eyeglasses).

Pre-Cooked Foods Make Scout Menu

PLEASING A SCOUT troop can be a big order. But a scout leader of a Croton-on-Hudson troop whips up a specialty of the hike called Boy Scout's beef stew. It's pre-cooked at home and then heated for about five minutes over a camp fire. Secret of appeal is its delicate seasoning.

The bottomless pit that is a boy may seem a constantly chewing monster to the one who does all the cooking.

But multiply a single boy by a Scout troop, and it is easy to see the problems of feeding that come up while on a hike. One thing a scout leader doesn't have to overcome is an "I don't like that" attitude. Once a youngster gets out in the open air, he suddenly develops a taste for foods he might not eat at home.

A scout leader of a Croton-on-Hudson, N. Y., troop became the group's favorite chef with simple recipes for beef stew, onion cornmeal pancakes and beans and franks. His magic touch was in the seasoning.

Also the elder scouter found it much easier to pre-cook or prepare the food at home and pack it for a hike. Then when it came time to break out chow-time equipment, all that had to be done was to rub a few sticks together for a fire and heat the food.

Families who camp out or go on short hikes together will find the recipes a tasty change from the usual cold sandwiches.

Boy Scout's Beef Stew

Cut 1½ pounds lean beef stew meat into 1½ inch pieces. Place in a saucepan with 2 cups water and 2 teaspoons salt. Cover and cook slowly 1½ hours or until meat is almost tender. Add three envelopes of dehydrated mixed vegetables, ⅞ ounce each. Cover and cook 25 minutes longer. Combine ¼ cup flour, ¼ teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon ground thyme (do this before leaving home). Add ½ cup cold water and beat wih a spoon until smooth and mix with the meat and vegetables. Cook until medium thick, about 5 minutes. Serve hot. Yield: Four large servings.

Onion Cornmeal Pancakes

Before leaving home, combine ½ cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1½ cups cornmeal, ½ cup non-fat dry milk, 3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ cup instant minced onion. Mix well. Add 2 tablespoons shortening and blend it in until the mixture resembles course crumbs Turn into a plastic bag for easy carrying on hike.

When ready to cook, empty bag of cornmeal mixture in a bowl or saucepan. Add 1¾ cups cold water and mix well. Drop batter from a tablespoon onto a hot greased skillet. Cook over camp fire stove until brown, turning to mrown both sides. Serve hot. Yield: 12 pancakes.

Campfire Beans

Turn a 1 pound can of pork and and beans into a saucepan. Add 1 tablespoon instant minced onion, salt and ground black pepper to taste. Cut 3 frankfurters into ½ inch slices, add, mix well and cook over campfire until hot. Serve at once. Yield: Three servings.

Boat Trailer Helps Growing Family Sport

The boat trailer has done a lot to make outboard boating one of the country's most popular and fastest growing family outdoor recreations.

With a runabout boat or cruiser hitched behind the family car many families enjoy the pleasures of boating, even though they may live miles from the nearest navigable water. The trailer also lets them store their boat conveniently and inexpensively.

The Outboard Boating Research Center of Scott-Atwater estimates that more than 1,300,000 boat trailers were in use this year and that the number is growing by approximately 165,000 annually.

In trailering a boat make sure the trailer fits the boat and supports it solidly, especially at the transom and along the keel.

Balance the boat on the trailer so that part of the weight — about 50 or 60 pounds — rests on the hitch. This prevents bobbing under way and makes hand-handling easier.

Stow all equipment so it cannot chafe or rattle, and tie down the boat securely at bow and stern to prevent shifting.

The car and trailer are 20 feet longer than the car alone and weigh more, so allow more time for starting, stopping and passing other cars.

Right Motor Angle Makes Steering Easy

When installing your motor on the transom of your boat, it is important to adjust the tilt so that the cavitation plate, the flat projection at water level that holds solid water down on the propeller, is parallel to the flow of water past the boat in motion.

An important reason why the cavitation plate and propeller line of thrust must be parallel to the flow of water, according to chief engineer Harry Ewald of Evinrude Motors, is to overcome the tendency of the motor to pull to port or starboard, transmitting this pull to the boat.

If you exaggerate the position of the motor so the lower unit is tilted toward the boat transom, you will notice that blade pitch on the port side is near zero while the starboard blade takes a maximum bite. The direct result will be easier steering to starboard and harder turning to port, and decreased propeller efficiency. (Figure 2)

In the opposite condition, with the lower unit tilted away from the transom, the starboard blade is feathered while the port blade takes the big bite. In this condition, it will be easier to turn the boat to port and harder to turn to starboard. (Figure 3)

Many of the complaints of hard steering can be directly traced to the mounting of the motor on the transom with respect to the tilt of the lower unit toward or away from the boat Proper positioning of motor also creates less wear on all steering mechanisms.
